Supervisor Joe Stein Suffers Broken Leg

Supervisor Joe Stein suffered a broken leg last Saturday morning, when he was kicked by a horse at his ranch home northeast of this city. He was brought to this city and taken to Omaha that day and he is now in the Methodist hospital there receiving medical treatment. Late word from Omaha is to the effect that Joe is getting along nicely, which will be gratifying news to his many Holt county friends. Dr. French and son, Dale, took Joe to Omaha.

Holt County Lagging In Bond Drive; O'Neill, Page Over Top

The Holt county bond drive is lagging. The Holt county quota for the third war loan drive is $866,400. At the close of business Wednesday evening Holt county residents had purchased $489,-295.90 worth of bonds, leaving us short $377,104.10 of our quota.

O'Neill and the village of Page are the only two towns or preare the only two towns or precincts in the county that have gone over the top. O'Neill, with a quota of $132,585 has sold bonds to the amount of $159,858, or $27,-273 over its quota. In this amount the County of Holt purchased $75,000 worth of bonds and O'Neill's share of that purchase was a little over $11,000. The village of Page had a quota of $17,536, and they have sold $23,924.25, so they have exceeded their quota by $6,388.25, which shows that the residents of our eastern neighbor have been right on their toes during the drive. to the amount of $159,858, or $27,- on their toes during the drive.

The drive officially ends Saturday night and many of the workers believe that if all the bond salesmen in the several towns and townships of the county work hard during the next two days that the county will be able ty work hard during the next two days that the county will be able to go over the top, and thus take her place, where she rightfully belongs, up with the leading counties in the state on bond sales. Many of the townships of the county, as well as the towns are woefully low in the amount of sales made and those in charge of the drive will exert every effort to have these towns and townships make their quota before the deadline Saturday night. If you have not purchased your supply of bonds, now is the time to get them.

"The third war loan campaign in Holt county is drawing to a close, with a substantial margin yet to be raised to meet the county's quota," states Lyle P. Dierks, county chairman of the War Finance Committee. "As yet the

"We are still hopeful that Holt county will raise its quota and we are urged to spend every available dollar in the purchase of securities to meet our quota.
We trust that when this campaign closes that everyone will have contributed in this third loan drive. Everyone should bear in mind that this is a loan to the Government which will be repaid and that our contribution is a very vital support to our boys on the fighting fronts."

M. F. Kirwin Injured

While on a scaffold painting a sign on the east side of the Virgin building on east Douglas street Wednesday evening, about 5:45, M. F. Kirwin fell and sustained a badly bruised hip. The scaffold was held by two step ladders and one of them fell, causing Mike to fall. For a time it was thought the hip was broken, but an x-ray disclosed there was no break. While he fell only about six feet, the fall almost put him out, as he suffered a good deal of pain for a while. Mike is getting along in years and these falls are bad enough for a young man to take, but when up in years they are
