

A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT

IMPROVED COLD WEATHER PERFORMANCE

Resulting from the

CROSS-FLOW RADIATOR

The cross-flow radiators in the cooling systems of the Pontiac Six and the Oakland All-American Six reduce to a minimum the evaporation of water and alcohol. An automatic thermostat prevents water circulation until the engine reaches correct operating temperature. As a consequence the engine warms up quickly and less chocking is needed, reducing dilution of crankcase oil. Because of the protection the cross-flow radiator provides against losses of water and alcohol, the Pontiac Six and the All-American Six require less attention in winter than other cars. Also, through their thermostatic control, they reveal far better performance than other cars in their fields when the temperature is low. . . . The cross-flow radiator is available only on the Pontiac Six and the All-American Six. Come in and see it. And learn while you're here of the many other advancements which only these two great General Motors Sixes provide.

"THE NOOSE."

The versatile Richard Barthelmess has a vehicle worthy of his extraordinary talents in "The Noose," which opens at the Royal Theatre Sunday. "The Noose" is a highly dramatic vehicle of which the star and director have fully availed themselves. It teems with sure fire situations and is unquestionably one of the finest stories Barthelmess has had in years. First National Pictures has supplied a remarkably well-balanced cast of first rate artists, a splendid production, excellent photography and a scenario with the result that patrons of the Royal Theatre are offered an entertaining and thrilling photo-dramatic evening. Richard Barthelmess enacts the role of Nickie Elkins, a youth raised in an underworld environment, who is caught in the ironic meshes of a very melodramatic combination of circumstances. To tell you what the situation is would be to spoil your enjoyment. Sufficient to say, it is gripping and unusual. Barthelmess avails himself of the broad opportunities for histrionism and achieves the dramatic heights of which he is so capable. Opposite the star appears Lina Basquette, former Follies dancer, and it is safe to say that she is a genuine sensation. Her interpretation of Dot, the cabaret dancer, is adorably done. Alice Joyce as the governor's wife, and Nickie's mother, gives a convincing and edifying performance. Mon-tagne Love, as the boy's father and head of the bootlegging gang, enacts some of the most perfidious villainy of his cinematic career.

John Francis Dillon directed "The Noose," and it is the opinion of this reviewer that he has topped his finest work.

Came Out of War Clean

"Herbert Hoover came out of the war clean," declared Senator Hitchcock, Democrat, of Nebraska, in the Senate in 1919. "He came out having rendered a great service to the American people. He came out at the head of a great army of volunteer citizens—men, women and children—who had, at his request, saved and skimped, and had thus helped him to conserve the food that was necessary to win the war."

Hoover in Hearts of People

"In my opinion, Mr. Hoover stands in the hearts of the American people equal to any man in the United States. I am sure that there is no member of the Senate who, if he ran for President against Hoover, would be able to poll as many votes as he would poll."—Senator Hitchcock, Democrat, of Nebraska, in 1919.
