"There is No Substitute for Experience"

THREE words tell the story of Conoco Supremacy—

EXPERIENCE
RESOURCES
SKILL

When motors require a better gasoline than today's Conoco, tomorrow's Conoco will be that gasoline.

Keeping ahead of the procession has always been a Conoco practice.

FACTS ABOUT NEBRASKA.
Nebraska has 550,068 acres of irrigated land. Scotts Bluff county leads with an acreage of 200,549 acres; Dawson comes next with something over a hundred thousand, while Morrill county closely follows with almost a hundred thousand. Lincoln, Sioux and Keith counties have 32,932 and 29,868 respectively with Hitchcock, Buffalo and Daws counties following in order. In all, 31 counties have irrigation from streams, with Keya Paha county reporting the lowest acreage. The first governor of Nebraska was Amos Stoddard, who was appointed governor of Upper Louisiana, of which the Nebraska region was then a part, in 1804. "Omaha City" in 1887 issued script, or paper money, which passed in general circulation as an obligation against the treasury of the municipality.

THE FRONTIER

D. H. CRONIN, Publisher
W. C. TEMPLETON,
Editor and Business Manager

Entered at the postoffice at O'Neill, Nebraska, as second-class matter.

Voters should not allow themselves to be fooled by the activities of an organization calling themselves the Agricultural League of Nebraska. Its alliance with the democratic national and state committees is too close. Its function seems to be to do certain jobs for the democratic organization, such as placing advertising for Governor Smith, writing letters and circulating literature to make it appear that there is a great farm sentiment in Nebraska for the democratic presidential candidate. The so-called League was very active in the arrangements for the Norris meeting in Omaha but the activities of the democratic campaign groups gave plain evidence that the immense costs of hall and radio broadcast were met with the democratic campaign money. The Norris address, it now appears, was long in preparation. The senator gave it out that Mr. Hoover's New York speech made him a convert to Governor Smith, when it was proven that advance copies of the Norris speech were given out to the press before the Hoover address. The participation of the League in these matters and the personnel of its officers are plain indications that the democratic organization is using a ruse to hide the stripes of the Tammany tiger behind the screen of middle west agricultural interest in the agricultural relief program of Governor Smith.

THE ELECTION.

Perhaps the most interesting election that has been held in years is rapidly drawing to a close; only four more days remain until the time to cast your vote. There will be only a small percent of the voters who will fail to register a choice for their favorite presidential candidate this year. From all reports available Herbert Hoover, the republican candidate for president, seems to have a long lead over Governor Al. Smith, the democratic candidate. Betting in New York state is 3 to 7 that Hoover will carry New York state. Both candidates have made a strenuous campaign and have made many talks over the radio on the national hook-up; other speakers have also talked in their behalf. Anyone who cared to hear the issues of the campaign discussed has had a fair opportunity to do so.

R. F. Howell, of Omaha, has made a good United States Senator and should be returned for another term. The entire republican state ticket is composed of men who are capable of filling the various offices in the proper manner and no doubt will do so if elected regardless of the slanderous and ungentlemanly remarks of some of the campaigners over the state.

Robert G. Simmons will receive a very large vote throughout the district that will return him to congress for another term. Congressman Simmons stands high among his associates in congress; the experience that he has received during the past few years has better fitted him to meet conditions that are constantly coming before congress that require men of experience and rare judgment to handle. Mr. Simmons has proven beyond a doubt that he is capable, and the right man for this office.

Ross Ampsoker, of Springview, the republican candidate for senator of the twenty-second district, is a prominent attorney of Keya Paha county and a man that is well versed on the needs and requirements of the district and the state as well. He will make an excellent senator to represent this district in the next legislature.

C. E. Havens, of Atkinson, is the republican candidate for representative of the sixty-fourth district. He is a thorough business man and a man of wide acquaintance over the state. He was a member of the board of supervisors of this county for several years and filled the position with entire satisfaction. The district will be ably represented if Mr. Havens is elected to that office.

There are three supervisors to be elected this year, one in the second, one in the fourth and one in the sixth district. In the second district L. C. McKim is the republican candidate; he is asking the voters for reelection. L. C. has made an exceptionally good member of the board and thoroughly understands that county's affairs which make him a valuable member. He has worked hard for his district and should be reelected.

L. E. Skidmore is the republican candidate in the fourth district and is also asking for reelection. Mr. Skidmore has worked hard in the interest of the county and should be reelected.

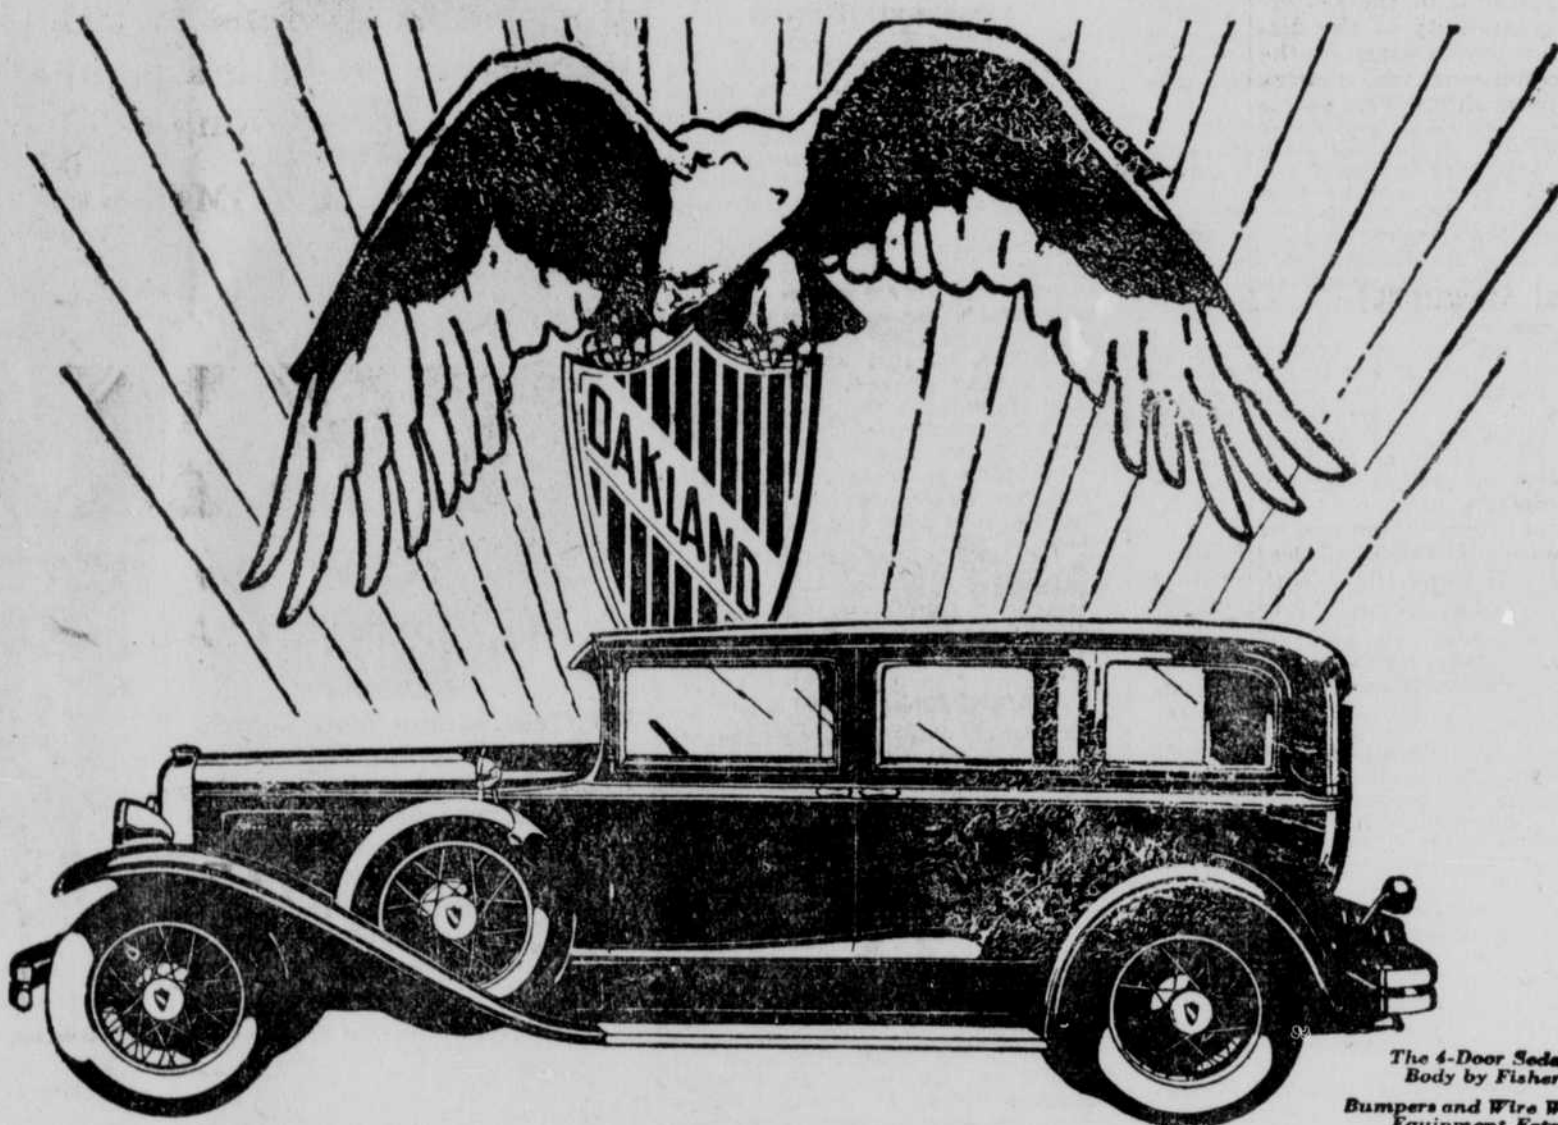

In the sixth district John Steinhauer has no opposition. He is the candidate of both parties and, of course, will be elected.

The office of supervisor is a rather thankless job; the man in office gets cursed if he does and cussed if he doesn't. Almost every person imagines that he could run the county's affairs better than the other fellow, but when they are elected they find that things look differently than they expected.

Don't forget to vote on the amendment.

STUDY THE OFFICIAL BALLOT ON ANOTHER PAGE OF THIS ISSUE

A copy of the official ballot will be found on another page of this issue. Every voter should study the ballots and be certain that they understand how to vote. Each voter will be given three separate ballots—the general election ballot, the non-political and the amendment ballot. The surest way to vote the republican ticket is to make a cross in the republican circle at the top of the ballot then fold the ballot and hand it to the judge of election. When one vote a straight republican ticket this year he can make no mistake. Mistakes are sometimes costly and disqualify a ballot. Make no mistake this year.
