Historic Quebec Rendez-vous for Winter Sports Enthusiasts

"On singing steel we rush or wildly wheel, And who can tell, Oh, who can tell the joy we feel?"
—From "The Skaters' Song."

When King Winter holds both town and country in his frosty embrace the lover of the great outdoors must find some outlet for his energy. What could be more fitting than a trip to Quebec, the historic Ancient Capital, where skating, skiing, snow-shoeing and tobogganing are at their very best from Christmas until well into March? No city in the wide world is more ideally situated than Quebec; no city possesses her natural advantages for winter sports

Beautiful in summer, in winter she is dazzling! With countless hills serving as toboggan slides, with skating rinks and gentle slopes for skiing; gleaming roads and glistening snow-fields, the city itself seems fashioned by nature for winter play and spectacle. From far and near, winter sports enthusiasts gather at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec's medieval hostelry, there to participate in all the glorious winter pastimes for which Quebec is known the world over. Descending from the shoulder of the Citadel to Dufferin Terrace is the famous Quebec toboggan slide, which runs the length of Dufferin Terrace and past the Chateau. At night the slide is decorated with multi-colored lights, and the breathtaking descent from the Citadel to the protective bunker beyond the Chateau is an experience never to be forgotten. One of the great attractions during Quebec's winter season is the International Dog-Sled Derby, a classic of the snows usually held late in February. Well known "mushers" and their teams of "buskies" gather from all parts of the United States and Canada to take part in this race which is one of the best means of ascertaining just what breed of dog is most suited to stand the gruelling hardships of running mail and supplies to isolated lumber camps and trading posts.

200 miles at almost
2 miles a minute
then his first request—
a Carbonated
Drink

The illustration shows how the news camera caught Lou Meyer, the noted racing driver, at the finish of the International Sweepstakes at the Altoona, Pa. speedway. His first impulse was to call for a Carbonated Bottled Drink because it not only quenches but refreshes and "picks up" exhausted nerves and body.

Whenever you feel fatigued—at 3 P. M., or at the end of a hard day's work—you can't find a better, quicker "pick-up" than a Carbonated Bottled Drink.

Scientists and physicians will tell you that the organs of circulation and digestion, as well as the whole nervous system, are invigorated by carbonic gas. Nature provides it in Mother's milk as a mild digestant and body stimulant for the nursing babe.

It's Carbonic Gas that gives Carbonated Beverages the life, snap, and sparkle that make them so delicious and refreshing. And its germicidal action helps purify the drink.

During cold weather, when vitality is apt to be low and the blood stream thick and sluggish, Carbonated Beverages are especially beneficial. You'll find it an excellent health idea to have a case of your favorite flavors always on hand at home.

We use the highest grade carbon gas obtainable—Red Diamond
