A BIG NEW IDEA.

One of the greatest drawbacks to the advancement of the retail grocery business has been the lack of knowledge on the part of retail grocers and their clerks as to what is in the can. Customers who wanted to know the number of slices of pineapple, the grade of peas, the character of the fruit, etc., before buying, have been unable to get the exact information due to the lack of knowledge of the facts.

This has now been automatically overcome in a most simple manner, so that even the grocer or the clerk need not know, but the consumer can ascertain for herself. This great forward step in silent merchandising has been the invention of Reid, Murdoch & Co., the big Chicago specialty house, of a practical mental display fixture which can be attached to the shelves for the display in glass in front of each different variety of food so that any one can see the contents of the can.

Aside from rendering this service to the housewife, this mental contrivance makes a most excellent addition to any store. The fruit or vegetable is displayed in a jar which holds the quantity in the can. The fruit or vegetable is visible so that the purchaser can readily see what she is purchasing. No explanations whatever are necessary. The glass container not only sets off the display of canned foods from the old prosaic method, but makes a most attractive addition to any store.

The fixture projects the width of the jar from the shelf immediately in front of the canned foods packed in the blind cans. No explanation becomes necessary on the part of clerks or grocer. The fruit or vegetables are displayed in full view, thus making an appetizing appearance.

Customers become so interested that they help themselves, thus saving that time for store employees, and money for themselves. Out a short time The Interstate Grocer was advised by Louis Anderson, sales manager, that the idea has taken like wildfire. To encourage the idea of customers waiting on themselves we have arranged our stock so the products have been displayed within easy reach.

Reid, Murdoch & Co. do not sell the metal holder, but lend it to customers for the display of Monarch Foods, under certain reservations. The writer was struck with the simplicity of the idea and predicts it is one of the most forward steps ever undertaken in the retail grocery business. At the same time it solves the lack of knowledge on the part of clerks and grocers because the consumer can see for herself just what she is getting.

CELIA ITEMS.

We have nothing to report, nor any fault to find with the weather this week.

The Johnson kids spent the evening and enjoyed a treat of ice cream at the Scott home Sunday evening.

Our bachelor family, the Hendricks, were somewhat divided up Sunday, Uncle Joe took dinner at the Kohl-schmidt home and Mark was a welcome guest at Johnsons.

The Scott family is evidently a family of spellers, two years ago the oldest boy, Bedford, held the floor in a spelling contest at the Phoenix school, this year their daughter, Josephine, outspelled them all at a contest held at the same place, Friday.

Do you know what a hoboe block is? Oh, don't you? Well if you are a hoboe and feel a vacuum under the belt just step to the back door of the night and day cafe in town. These kind people will likely satisfy your inner man, but first you will be introduced to the hoboe blocks. The community truck brought in a fresh supply of hoboe blocks the other day.

The gang is here, but not to stay. The Johnson boys, Stanley and Albert, and Martin Hamberger drove up in Mr. Hamberger's car from Oakland, Friday evening for a short visit with their parents over Sunday. Elmer Johnson was already here, so the Johnsons had a full house, almost. Martin Hamberger is at his old trade down there, selling Chevrolets. Stanley has hired out to a farmer near Oakland. The other two, Johnson Bros. are renting 240 acres joining town. They intend to put their feet under their own table this year and start housekeeping without a housekeeper, and since leasyear is past there is not much chance of them getting one either. Dad Johnson thinks a lot of animals and hopes the boys wont try to keep a dog, it'll need better feed. The boys report that the explosion at Scribner was so strong it shook the houses and rattled the window panes in Oakland. Some people thought it was the piano or some heavy furniture falling over. Scribner is twenty miles away.

TIRE PRICES REDUCED.

National Tire Stores Announce New Low Prices.

A big reduction in prices of all tires has just been announced by the National Tire Stores here in O'Neill. This brings the price of tires to the lowest point in history according to W. P. Curtis of the O'Neill Service Station, who manages the local branch of the big chain of National Tire Stores.

When asked why it was that National Tire Stores could reduce the price of their tires to such a low point, Mr. Curtis said: "It's all a matter of chain store buying power and increased volume of sales. A year ago when our central purchasing department contracted for National tires it was in carload quantities—today it requires trainloads. This big increase has been partly due to the rapid growth in the number of our stores throughout the country and partly due to the increased amount of business which each store is getting."

"Naturally, as our buying power increases we are able to make bigger and bigger savings and it is the policy of our organization to pass these savings on to the car owners."

Mr. Curtis looks for a nice increase in business due to the new low prices now in effect and says that he will continue to give the year's free insurance in addition to a lifetime guarantee on every standard quality tire he sells.
