What Dollar You Spend
Buys More Value?

'Always at Your Service'

THIS evening after the picture show or the auto ride you return home and turn on the electric light. It has been waiting there for you—ready to respond instantly to any demand you make upon it.

Today, tomorrow and the next day you will call upon your electric company for instant service. You will give no warning as to when you will want it nor how much of it you will want. Yet the service will be there, plenty of it, at all times, ready for use in large or small quantities, as you see fit, and to be paid for after you use it, not before.

This kind of service is possible only through the operation of large power plants interconnected by substational transmission lines.

And back of all there is the desire on the part of your Electric Company to render you the best possible service at the lowest possible cost.

Have you ever thought of it in this way?

Interstate Power Company

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS.

HOME ECONOMICS.

By Elizabeth Henry.
Mrs. Vivian Donnelly, a Home Economics specialist, who was in O'Neill, April 8, giving classes in electric cookery for the Interstate Power Company, visited the Home Economics class Monday and gave a very interesting talk on the advantages of electric appliances in the home. She explained how much time could be saved by using an electric stove. The reason you could save time is because of the automatic control which eliminates the necessity of watching the foods while they are being cooked. She invited the class to the demonstration that was to be held at the Interstate Power Company that evening.

NORMAL TRAINING.

Harriet McConnell, post graduate normal training student, has secured a position as teacher of the Clark School, south of Emmet, for the coming year.

HOLT COUNTY TRACK MEET.

MUSIC CONTEST AT WAYNE.

Lona Cromwell and Elizabeth Henry accompanied by Miss Turner and Miss Beigley, went to Wayne, where Lona and Elizabeth entered the District Music Contest. Although O'Neill High won no honors, Lona's and Elizabeth's trip was beneficial and enjoyable, and all O'Neill High joins in thanking the girls for trying to bring home the honors. Charles and Helen Hancock went with the party. Charles acted as chauffeur.

The following are up to the standard in spelling as prescribed by the third quarterly state test: Melvin Pilger, Kenneth Harding, Mike Madura, Hazel Schwisow, Thomas Liddy, Glen Auten, Elsa Ohmart, Patrice Robinson, Clone Clark, Mavis Thompson, Luella Crandall, Catherine Hagensick, Geneva Fox, Earl Hunt, Robert Stitt, Robert Cook, Harold Fuller and Neoma Michaels.

For complying with the rules for eating one cooked cereal for breakfast every morning, the class was awarded a picture. They chose "The Signing of The Declaration of Independence." For complying with the rules for writing letters emphasizing the need and benefit of cooked cereals, they won another picture, and chose "The Age of Ignorance."

In a contest on the Remedial Score Cards in Arithmetic, Neoma Michaels was first, Mary Brown second, and Kenneth Hunt third.

When the class took the state test in mental arithmetic Jerome Ashton and Neoma Michaels received one hundred percent, Melvin Pilger 98 percent, and Rebecca Haskins 96 percent. We took up a collection and sent for fifty works of art from the Perry Picture Company. In a contest to find out who could name the most pictures and their artists, Rebecca Haskins named twenty-four out of twenty-seven, Neoma Michaels twenty-three, Kenneth Harding twenty-one, and Bernice Scofield twenty.
