Health

95 PER CENT of all bread fed to the patients of 12 leading hospitals of New York City is white bread.

"White bread is fed to patients because of its concentrated fuel value and easy digestibility," Miss Kobe, dietitian of the Broad Street Hospital, declared. The well-balanced diet can be built around bread.

Bread is good for young and old. No one food, not even milk, can supply the body with all the materials needed for growth and vitality. But each of our chief foods - bread, milk, meat, poultry products, fresh fruits and vegetables, taken in suitable combinations, can accomplish this result.

White bread is rich in protein and carbohydrates which the body needs and it is so completely digestible that nearly all of these two important contents are assimilated.
