

This Mother Had Problem

As a rule, milk is about the best food for children, but there are times when they are much better off without it. It should always be left off when children show by feverish, fretful or cross spells, by bad breath, coated tongue, sallow skin, indigestion, biliousness, etc., that their stomach and bowels are out of order.

In cases like this, California Fig Syrup never fails to work wonders, by the quick and gentle way it removes all the souring waste which is causing the trouble, regulates the stomach and bowels and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act normally of their own accord. Children love its rich, fruity flavor and it's purely vegetable and harmless, even for babies.

Millions of mothers have proved its merit and reliability in over 50 years of steadily increasing use. A Western mother, Mrs. May Snavelly, Montrose, California, says: "My little girl, Edna's, tendency to constipation was a problem to me until I began giving her California Fig Syrup. It helped her right away and soon her stomach and bowels were acting perfectly. Since then I've never had to have any advice about her bowels. I have also used California Fig Syrup with my little boy, with equal success."

To be sure of getting the genuine, which physicians endorse, always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name.

Watermelon Center

A bid for recognition as the home of the "world's largest watermelons" was lodged with the federal farm board at Washington by the little town of Hope, Ark., and a melon weighing 104 pounds was presented as proof of what can be grown there. Thousands of melons are grown in that vicinity, and this year 500 melons weighing more than 100 pounds each have been shipped to consumers.—Indianapolis News.

Search Is Renewed for Traces Of Parrot Race Columbus Found

WASHINGTON.—When Christopher Columbus returned to triumphal procession to Barcelona, in the spring of 1493, the gold which he brought from his "India" was of greatest interest to Ferdinand and Isabella.

They laughed at the shrieks and antics of his 49 parrots, but it was these birds which aided in latter day proof that Columbus had in reality sailed to a new world.

The gold pieces, which meant nothing, now are museum exhibits. The department of agriculture would like to add a representative of the race of parrots to its museum lore, but the birds have vanished.

They were known to ornithologists of later years as Cuban macaws, and were to be found nowhere in the world except in eastern Cuba and in few of the other West Indies. The historians of the day cited these Cuban macaws as proof that Columbus had discovered a western route to India.

Pietro Martin d'Anghiera, Italian humanist at the court of Castile, long a doubter of Columbus' claims, was convinced by the parrots.

"There parrots brought from there," he wrote, "show that either of propinquity or nature, the islands are a part of India. They nourish popinjays, of which some are green, some yellow, and some like those of India with yellow rings about their necks as Pliny describes them.

"Of these they brought 40 with them, of most lively and delectable colors, having their feathers intermingled with green, yellow and purple, which variety delights the sense not a little."

The best available records show no Cuban macaws have been seen for half a century.

Ex-Convict Editor Lays His Rearrest to Woman Scorned

CHICAGO.—"...And then that fearful hand, the police, assures from the shadow, and suddenly tears off my mask!"—Jean Valjean.

Robert Elliott Burns, escaped convict who became editor of a Chicago magazine, scorned a woman. And now, a modern Jean Valjean, he's scheduled to go back to a Georgia chain gang.

Seven years ago a sledge swung by a fellow prisoner, a giant negro, struck off the shackles riveted around Burns' ankle and he escaped from the road camp where he had been sent for his part in a $4 robbery, from which his share was $1.33. He had drifted down south after discharge from the army and, with two chance companions, robbed a grocery.

In the pursuit that followed the breaking of the shackles he outwitted guards and bloodhounds, and reached Chicago penniless. He got a job in a packing plant at $3 a day. Then he stepped up to a $40 a week job figuring beef averages and rented a room at 6444 Ingleside avenue.

"That's where I met the woman who caused all the trouble," he says. Mrs. Emily Pacheco, 14 years his senior, became Mrs. Robert Burns. She had learned of his secret, declares Burns, and threatened to expose him unless he married her. Although she is suing for divorce, Mrs. Burns denies she sought revenge by "turning him in."

Burns had the idea for his real estate magazine and worked nights to get money to start. Soon it was a going concern and he had won the confidence of prominent business men. His income from the magazine alone was estimated at $20,000 yearly.

Then he met Lillian Salo, 22 years old, of Minneapolis, pretty violin student. They fell in love and Burns left his wife. Soon after that two deputies from Georgia walked into Burns' office.

"We want you," they said. "I knew he was married," said

MARRIAGE BRINGS LENGTHENED LIFE, RECORDS INDICATE

BERLIN.—Marriage tends to prolong life, the "weaker sex" lives longer than the "stronger" and the average life has since 1871 been lengthened by 20 years, are the conclusions drawn by the most recent official German vital records and mortality statistics.

In 1871, these records show, the average feminine life in Germany was 38.5 years, and the masculine average 35.5. For the period 1924 to 1926, however, the average girl baby could look forward to 53.8 years of life, and her brother to 56 years.

For the boy or girl who grew up safely as far as 29 years of age, the prospects were still better. A young man of 20 in 1871 could only count on reaching the age of 53.5, but his grandson, a young man of 20 in 1927, could safely look forward to 66 or 67 years.

The figures show indisputably an average of 5 years more for married folk, both men and women. Whether this fact be regarded as proof that people become stronger

AS X IS TO Y.

For years I've wondered why it is, Thermometers I buy, No matter where, nor yet from whom, So uniformly lie.

The price I pay, the size I get, Nor color of the case, The slightest difference makes it them; They're uniformly base.

In summer they're too cool by far, Whenever I'm the buyer; In winter they are twice as bad, But uniformly higher.

No matter where I hang the things, To windward or a-lee, That they are never, never right, I uniformly see.

Of course I postulate this verse, As I should think I might— Upon the thought, the weather man Is uniformly right.

And while I so am reasoning, The while I have the knack— I think I'll prove that purest white Is uniformly black. —Sam Page.

their work in evening schools on account of eye troubles ascribed to the conditions of artificial lighting.

"Visual exploration is the most prolific sensory source of learning. In the home and school the same fundamentals apply, so far as mechanical accidents are influenced by illumination, as in industrial establishments."

The report says nearsightedness in school children increases from class to class. It declares that "the typical middle class home is lighted less than half as well as it should be, and the homes of the lower class only half as well as those of the middleclass."

Alaskan Short Moss

Used as Poultry Feed

ANCHORAGE, ALASKA.—Poultry raising is being developed in Alaska with the discovery by Professor Gasser of the Fairbank agricultural college and school of mines that short tundra moss is one of the best chicken feeds obtainable.

Like all varieties of sub-Arctic mosses, the short moss, a perennial, grows on the ground and when cut may be cured like hay.

When treated with moisture it recovers its succulence as do dehydrated vegetables and takes the place of green feed as well as aiding the grain rations in turning out poultry for market.

Several mining companies have established their own poultry yards where transportation facilities would make the cost of eggs and chickens prohibitive.

Ultra-Modern Cowboy

'Bulldogs' from Plane

PONCA CITY, OKLA.—The gentle art of bulldogging steers from hurricane decks of horses, and even automobiles, has become too humdrum for western spectators. Now it's done from airplanes.

Buck Hoover, the modern version of a cowboy, is making a life work of it. In his first effort the steer came out victorious and untouched while Hoover went to a hospital.

Hoover proposes to make the leap from a ladder dangling from an airplane's undercarriage. He says the profession impresses him as one with a future for young men.

through marriage, or again, as an indication that only the strong dare to marry, must remain a matter of taste or prejudice. The official statistics maintain strict silence on the point.

WORCESTER, MASS.—The fact that he couldn't read English cost Aaron George $10 in court recently. He applied for a license to run a pool room. The license board sent him a document refusing him the license. George thought it was his license, framed it, hung it on the wall and opened his "parlor." Police arrested him several days later.

Needless Pain!

People are often too patient with pain. Suffering when there is no need to suffer. Shopping with a head that throbs. Working though they ache all over.

And Bayer Aspirin would bring immediate relief!

The best time to take Bayer Aspirin is the moment you first feel the pain. Why postpone relief until the pain has reached its height? Why hesitate to take anything so harmless?

Read the proven directions for checking colds, easing a sore throat; relieving headaches and the pains of neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, etc.

You can always count on its quick comfort. But if pain is of frequent recurrence see a doctor as to its cause.

Children CRY for it

It may be the little stomach; it may be the bowels are sluggish. No matter what coats a child's tongue, it's a safe and sensible precaution to give a few drops of Castoria. This gentle regulation of the little system soon sets things to rights. A pure vegetable preparation that can't harm a wee infant, but brings quick comfort—even when it is colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance.

And don't forsake Castoria as the child grows older. If you want to raise boys and girls with strong systems that will ward off constipation, stick to good old Castoria; and give nothing stronger when there's any irregularity except on the advice of a doctor. Castoria is sold in every drugstore, and the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

Wins Wife as First Prize!

If you don't think your whole life can be changed by chance, read this. It is the story of a young man who was pretty well down and out, but he figured he might win a prize if he took some advice.

"As far back as I can remember I had been a weakling," says Mr. Calvin L. Floyd of Orlando, Florida. "A headache, it seemed, was to be my life companion. I was always dizzy in the mornings. Nothing I ate seemed good for me. Then I attended a health lecture in a sanatorium and the physician talked on 'faulty elimination.' That was certainly my trouble. One of the patients asked him about Nujol. He recommended it highly. I decided to try one bottle to see if there was anything in what he said about natural lubrication for the human body.

"Long before I had finished the first bottle my 'companion-headache' was gone. No more tired out feeling. I got a real kick out of life now. By the way, I almost forgot to tell you I found a new life companion, too!"

Perfectly simple, wasn't it? Mr. Floyd just learned the normal natural way to get rid of bodily poisons (we all have them) and nature did the rest. Why shouldn't you be well?

Nujol is not a medicine. It contains no drugs. It is effective, so you will be "regular as clock-work." You can buy it at all good drug stores in sealed packages for less than the price of a couple of good cigars.

Begin today. Millions have found that Nujol makes all the difference in the world. Nujol will make you feel fine and you can prove it.

Many a life changed by a message like this one.
