Norfolk Concern Announces New Policy and Is Swamped

Norfolk, Neb.—(Special)—The cream price situation in north Nebraska is "shot to pieces" as the result of the Norfolk Creamery company announcing to farmers that it will begin paying for butter fat on the basis of the Chicago and New York standard butter prices. As a result the price of cream has jumped from 26 cents to 36 cents a pound delivered in Norfolk.

The company making the announcement is swamped with cream from all parts of north Nebraska.

The farmers had apparently been holding their cream for several weeks.

The prices in Norfolk vary from 26 to 36 cents.

Other towns in north Nebraska are in a similar situation as to prices of cream as the result of this change by the Norfolk company which indicates that it will continue paying according to the Chicago and New York butter prices.

TWO ATTORNEYS NOT SATISFIED

Award of Fees in W.O.W. Globe Company Case May Be Appealed

Lincoln, Neb.—(UP)—Dissatisfied with the award of the district court in giving M. L. Donovan $4,000 and W. H. Hatteroth $3,000 of the $50,000 Woodmen of the World attorney fee, the two Omaha attorneys filed motion for a new trial.

If a new trial is denied them, they indicated they would appeal to the supreme court.

The two attorneys wanted one eighth each of the $50,000 fee and Judge Shepherd's award fell short of little over $5,000 of the total the two men sought.

The attorneys claimed they acted as counsel for the plaintiffs and for an intervenor in the suit of F. E. Folts and others against the Globe Life Insurance company and the W. O. W. camp, in which the latter was forced to replace about $2,000,000 used in the formation of the Globe company.

DAHLMAN BODY IS LAID TO REST

Omaha People Pay Last Respects to Their Cowboy Mayor

Omaha, Neb.—(UP)—Mayor James C. Dahlman was laid to rest in Elks Rest at Forest Lawn cemetery here Friday with honors befitting his 21 years of service to the city.

Business halted as last rites for the city's chief executive were held. Hundreds of floral offerings and telegrams and personal letters of condolence were received by his widow.

Public funeral services were held at city hall council chamber at noon. These were in charge of the Elks lodge, of which Dahlman was a member.

At 3 p. m., private services, attended only by members of the family and intimate friends, were held at All Saints Episcopal church. Rev. Frederick W. Clayton, pastor of All Saints delivered the sermon.

Thousands viewed Dahlman's body as it lay in state for 24 hours in the council chamber Thursday evening and Friday morning. The chamber was unable to accommodate the throngs seeking entrance for the public funeral. It had at first been planned to hold this service in municipal auditorium but Mrs. Dahlman vetoed this idea.

Special guards of honor, representing police and fire departments and numerous fraternal and other organizations stood at attention as "Mayor Jim's" friends passed to view the body as it lay in state.

Public schools were dismissed at noon and most business houses closed for half an hour at the same time in honor of the mayor. Resolutions of sympathy passed by a score of organizations were presented to Mrs. Dahlman.

OUTLINES PROCEDURE IN STERILIZATION CASES

Lincoln, Neb.—(UP)—What procedure should be followed in the enforcement of the new state law for sterilization of feeble-minded or insane or habitual criminals in state institutions was outlined by Attorney General C. A. Sorensen.

In a recent injunction suit brought against the board of sterilization to test the enforcement of the law, an order for the sterilization of an inmate of the Lincoln state hospital was cancelled upon the advice of Sorensen who held the proper steps had not been followed by the board because no hearing had been given.

The attorney general's plan of procedure, as outlined upon the request of the state board of control, requires the heads of state institutions to report to the sterilization board quarterly the names of inmates eligible for parole during the coming three months. These inmates are then to be examined and investigated by the sterilization board and a written report filed.

Where sterilization is recommended, a hearing is to be held, with a week or 10 days' notice given to close relatives or the guardian of the inmate. The latter must be present at the hearing and his legal guardian or counsel should be present. The board of examiners is to make written findings as to the necessity of sterilization and a written order is required for each operation. The inmate is given 30 days time in which to appeal from the order for an operation.

The proposed regulations provide that the operation shall be performed at a state institution in which the inmate is housed and shall be performed in the presence of the board of examiners or one of its members.

GENERAL HENRI GOURAUD TO BE GUEST OF HONOR DURING RAINBOW VETERAN REUNION

BALTIMORE—A tall, gaunt figure in French army blue, with a crippled leg and only one arm, will be the center of attention at the annual reunion of the Rainbow division in Baltimore July 13 to 15.

Gen. Henri Gouraud, who stopped the great German offensive in the second battle of the Marne and turned the tide of battle into final victory for the Allies, will be the guest of honor.

The Rainbow division, made up of troops from 26 states, was in the center of the 4th French army commanded by General Gouraud when he launched a surprise attack against the Germans the morning of July 15, 1918.

This resulted in checking the German advance. Three days later, July 18, the Rainbow division again played a valiant part under Gouraud's command.

Committees from the other eight divisions which took part in the second battle of the Marne have been invited to help welcome General Gouraud when he arrives in New York July 10.

The reunion is expected to be attended by between 3,000 and 4,000 men. It is hoped that President Hoover will make an address. Other speakers will be Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the United States army who, during the war, was 1st Artillery brigade commander of the Rainbow division; Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord who commanded the second division and M. Paul Claudel, French ambassador.

At a banquet July 14 there will be a period of silence at 10 minutes before midnight. Men will live over again that tense moment of 11 years ago when they were awaiting the German attack in the Champagne sector. The division chaplain, the Rev. Francis P. Duffy, will give the valedictory.

Maj. Gen. H. J. Reilly of Washington, who commanded the 83rd Infantry brigade, will be another prominent figure to attend. Maj. Gen. Charles P. Menoher, who commanded the Rainbow troops during most of the fighting, will not be present because of illness.

Two projects before the veterans will be the publication of a Rainbow division history and plans for a pilgrimage to France in 1930.

HAMLET.

(A Rhymed Review.)
Place, Denmark; time, the Middle Ages;

Take castle, stir in murders gory; With madness season, add a ghost. And serve—the makings of this story.

His father's ghost, Prince Hamlet learned,
About the castle had been stalking.

So, all bet up, he sought to know
What was the cause of this night walking.

The ghost, in shaking hollow voice,
Said by his brother he'd been slain;

This brother, who now was the king,
He claimed was just another Cain.

That he might better play the spy
And get the dope on all this badness,

The prince assumed a solemn mien
And donned a cloak of seeming madness.

Ophelia, who loved Hamlet well,
Her dad had warned was far above her—

Should be considered but her prince,
Instead of as her faithful lover.

The prince then killed, by accident,
Polonius, Ophelia's father;

This drove Ophelia raving mad,
And made a lot of silly bod.

Next, Hamlet really learned the truth—
Induced a group of strolling players.

To stage a play, whereby he proved
The king and queen his father's slayers.

Ophelia, spurned by Hamlet, soon
Became a love lorn suicide;
Her brother, filled with vengeance
Right speedily the prince defied.

The king and brother quickly plot
With poisoned sword and cup;
and then
A mix up followed fast in which
The queen was killed—and all the men.

Perhaps, if Shakespeare lived today,
Best sellers he might write—with coaching;
Crime tales he surely could indite—
For he himself was good at poaching.

Lighten the Ship,

Rev. Karl Neland, in Commerce and Finance.

We read in the book of the Acts of a sea voyage which encountered a severe storm and in their desperate efforts to keep the ship afloat and assist it to ride the tempestuous seas the crew "lightened the ship." There is a suggestion in that experience which may serve as a suitable pretext for thoughts about the New Year. Our personal organization may be likened to a ship and our progress through the experience we call life may be likened to a voyage on the ocean. The analogy is not new by any means; it is to be met with in many languages,

WIFE RETAINS 80-ACRE FARM

Mother Fails to Secure Return of Land She Deeded to Her Son

Lincoln, Neb.—(UP)—Mary E. Sailor, of Richardson county, lost in her attempt to regain an 80 acre farm she had once deeded to her late son, John, and the supreme court Tuesday declared that the son's widow, Mrs. Lola Sailor, is entitled to the land.

Mrs. Sailor divided 240 acres of land among five children, four of them getting 40 acres each while John got 80 acres because he was unmarried and had agreed to take care of his mother. This was done in 1911 and in 1927 he married.

His mother had contended he failed to live up to his contract to care for her in her home in Barbara, declaring that he moved away after his marriage. In less than a year after his marriage, John died, September 26, 1928, and the 80 acres went to his wife, who contended that her husband had only left his mother after his marriage to go to Falls City for medical aid.

Mrs. Sailor the mother, had attempted to regain possession of the land in a suit in Richardson county courts but was defeated. The supreme court affirmed the decision of the lower court.

WRONG METHOD OF CHILD CARE

Secretary Nebraska Public Welfare Bureau Speaks of Wayward Ones

Beatrice, Neb.—(UP)—Declaring that Nebraska's method of placing children in institutions is all wrong, E. M. Pollard, secretary of the department of public welfare, in an address Monday noon before the Beatrice Welfare society, advocated supervising children through probation officers.

"The whole theory of the probationary movement is to supervise the child by the probation officer in its own home, where possible, or in a foster home where it is found necessary to separate him from his parents," Pollard said.

"Probation contemplates supervising these wayward children at the beginning of their delinquency, the purpose being to correct the waywardness while they are young and susceptible to influence rather than to permit them to go on without restriction or supervision until they commit some crime and then undertake to reform the criminal in our state penitentiaries."

According to the 1928 report of the state board of control more than 50 per cent of the children placed out in the state were returned in spite of the fact that many placed out were infants, Pollard said.

"In my opinion, this return of so many children to the state home is due to lack of supervision in the placements. The statute provides for the supervision of all girls and boys placed in homes either from the home for dependent children, at Geneva or Kearney and yet the legislature has failed to appropriate the funds to make it possible for the board of control to carry out the clear mandate of the statute."
