

This Little Girl Got Well Quick

"Just after her third birthday, my little daughter, Connie, had a serious attack of intestinal flu," says Mrs. H. W. Turnage, 217 Cadwalder St., San Antonio, Texas. "It left her very weak and pale. Her bowels wouldn't act right, she had no appetite and nothing agreed with her."

"Our physician told us to give her some California Fig Syrup. It made her pick up right away, and now she is as robust and happy as any child in our neighborhood. I give California Fig Syrup full credit for her wonderful condition. It is a great thing for children."

Children like the rich, fruity taste of California Fig Syrup, and you can give it to them as often as they need it, because it is purely vegetable. For over 50 years leading physicians have recommended it, and its overwhelming sales record of over four million bottles a year shows it gives satisfaction. Nothing compares with it as a gentle but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It regulates the stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

There are many imitations of California Fig Syrup, so look for the name "California" on the carton to be sure you get the genuine.

Curiosity's Uses

Curiosity came into the world when the first man looked at the stars or had the original primordial stomach ache. It is the first sign that the lately born child is something more than an impersonal scrap of appetite. It can survive the adventures of youth and the disillusion of later years and give old age enough to do to keep it out of mischief and misery. It deserves a good word even though it needs none.

Out Our Way

She Finds a Lasting Place in History

On January 1st, 1752, in the city of Philadelphia was born a baby girl who was destined to play a part in the history of our country which time cannot efface. On that day was born Betsy Ross, who plied her needle unceasingly for George Washington's troops and for the Father of our country himself. Betsy Ross was entrusted with the work of making the wonderful flag with its thirteen stripes and circlet of stars, the first flag of freedom of the United States (left). The upholstery shop at Arch Street, Philadelphia, birthplace of etsy Ross (inset). George Washington, to whom Betsy Ross presented the new flag of the new born nation. (Upper right) Betsy Ross, (lower) Betsy Ross presenting the flag to the Commander-in-Chief of the Revolutionary Army.

LIBERTY, happiness, prosperity, all these wonderful things that we take for granted are symbolized best by our national flag, affectionately known as "Old Glory." And it does not take much imagination to visualize how much the designing and making of that flag meant to the band of men in whose hands lay the destinies of an independent people determined to found a country, rather than be a colony.

It is very appropriate, therefore, that the woman who made our first flag, should have been born on January 1. For, New Year's Day, 1752, was the birthday of Betsy Ross, the first needlewoman of our country. And although we like to imagine that this is the day of the business woman, it must go on record that Mrs. Ross, young, bright, and very shrewd, ran a very prosperous upholstery business on Arch street, below Third, in Philadelphia. She was the widow of John Ross, nephew of Colonel George Ross, who was one of the committee appointed by Congress in June, 1776, to design a suitable flag for the nation. George Washington, who was one of the committee, had frequently called on Mrs. Ross to embroider his shirt ruffles and do other needlework for him, and so it was to her that he turned for advice about the flag, how it should be made, so that it conformed to the rough drawing that had already been made embodying the ideas of the committee.

Mrs. Ross objected to the six-pointed stars in the original design, suggesting in place the five-pointed star because it was easier to make. To demonstrate the ease with which such a star could be made, the vivacious little widow folded a piece of paper and produced one by a single snip of her scissors. The sketch was redrawn in pencil by George Washington, and with a few minor alterations, a banner that approximated to the ideas of Benjamin Franklin and others who had made suggestions, was adopted. Mrs. Ross was then entrusted with the work of making the wonderful flag with its thirteen red and white stripes and its circle of thirteen white stars, which was to symbolize that the new nation would also be without end—that it would endure for all time. And for her services, Betsy Ross deserves her niche in the hall of great American women.

When "Dark Ages" Better. From Omaha World-Herald. No matter what name it is practiced under the so-called "third degree" on persons suspected of crime or guilty knowledge of crime is a revolting institution, justified neither by morals nor law, although the latter seems to have had little power to put a stop to it. Courts complacently accept confessions or testimony extorted by "third degree" methods and the practice goes on unchecked.

In Seattle, Wash., a pseudo-scientific refinement of "third degree" cruelty seems to have been introduced in the application of what is called a "truth serum" and a "truth machine" or "lie detector."

After six days of treatment in what he described as a "little torture room" a prisoner in the Seattle county jail managed to get an injunction against county officers forbidding further use of the chemical and machinery upon him. This prisoner, convicted of theft and facing a life sentence because of a long criminal record behind him, was suspected of a murder in which there was no corpus delicti. His questioners were attempting to get him to confess the murder and tell where the body could be found so they could prove it and put him to death. He was luckier than most "third degree" candidates in getting his torturers called off after only six days of their cruelties.

Apparently his persecutors, named as the county attorney and sheriff, are subject to no penalty for their cruelties, although most state constitutions forbid cruel and unusual punishment of prisoners. The marked a steamboat mate in Cincinnati, counting his pay money.

"You're right," responded the clerk. "A 'dixie' is bon bon, as these French fellows say down south."

Unlettered as they were they pronounced the Dix as it was spelled. The town where the "dixies" came from they called "dixie's land."

"third degree" is not applied in the name of punishment. It seems, however, as though the officers might just as well have burned matches against the soles of his feet as to dope him with chemical injections and subject him to six days of constant questioning strapped to a machine supposed to detect him in lying by registering the frequency of his heart beats.

If this is science, give us the dark ages again.

Using His Tact. From Pages Gales, Yverlon. "How did you manage to get your rich aunt to make you her chief heir?"

"She underwent a beauty treatment and I didn't recognize her."

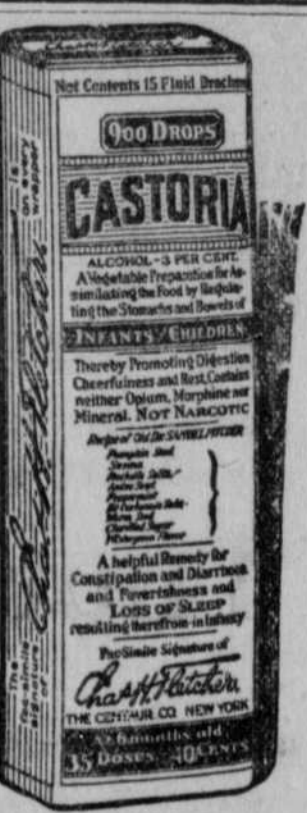

ple became more manifest, what with the darkening of the war clouds, the term "dixie's land" came gradually to be applied to the whole section in which the dixies had the largest circulation. From there on, a step only was needed to extend the borders until it embraced all the United States territory south of the Mason-Dixon line.

An Ailing CHILD

Are you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish condition, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so. You can tell from the recipe on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

In a novel, one always likes the sensible character; and there isn't more than one.

After 28 Years' Practice Describes Natural Treatment which Keeps People Well

"AFTER over 28 years of the study and practice of medicine, during which time I have treated and supervised the treatment of almost every variety of human illness," writes Dr. Martin J. Dobson of Los Angeles, "I believe I have discovered the greatest blessing that has been bestowed upon the human family. Statistics show that of all classes of persons, physicians and nurses live to a riper old age than any other class of people. I believe this is no doubt due to the fact that they know more about the importance of daily elimination.

Dr. Dobson's Discovery

"The remedy I am speaking of is colorless, tasteless, harmless to the most delicate alimentary tract, from infancy to old age. It is non-habit-forming, and it is essential to the smooth running efficiency of the human body, which needs lubrication just like any other machine.

"This remedy is Nujol. "Most human ailments can be traced to the alimentary tract for either the main or the contributing cause, and most of these disorders can be prevented or cured through proper cleansing and regulating by the administration of Nujol as per instructions on the bottle and wrapper, or as ordered by the physician or nurse."

Nujol Laboratories considers it a privilege to publish Dr. Dobson's endorsement of Nujol.

Physicians and nurses themselves use and advise you to use Nujol regularly to clean the poisons out of your body (we all have them), because these poisons are what make us feel headachy, depressed, low in our minds.

It is always safe to use Nujol, because it is not a medicine; it contains absolutely no drugs; it cannot hurt even the tiniest baby; it forms no habit; it is non-fattening. Nujol is harmless internal lubrication.

What This Should Mean to You

In the last few weeks we have had over 5,000 letters from people all over the world, telling us how Nujol has helped them to happiness and success by keeping their bodies internally clean. You can buy Nujol in sealed packages at any drug store. It costs but a few cents, and it will make you feel like a million dollars.

Start Nujol tonight. Use it regularly for two weeks, and learn the joy and the happiness that comes from buoyant, zestful health!

Everybody struggles to get enough money to buy a lot of things he doesn't need.

Not often is "the public cordially invited" to anything that is very expensive.
