Friends in Inman were grieved to hear of the death of E. W. Thorp, at the Lutheran hospital in Norfolk, on Monday morning. Mr. Thorp had been in the hospital for some time, being treated for infection resulting from a compound fracture of his lower right arm. co-efficient

OF THE NEW

Polarine

THE MODERN MOTOR OIL

BETTERS MOTOR PERFORMANCE

The effect of heat and cold on the body of an oil determines its "temperature-viscosity co-efficient."

In the new Polarine you get oil that varies less between zero and the operating heat of the motor than any old process oil.

This means that at all seasons of the year and under all operating conditions, the new Polarine gives more uniform and more dependable protection to your motor.

You get better motor performance and less motor wear. Because the new Polarine deposits less than half as much carbon as old process oils, compression varies less and the oil stays clean longer.

In every respect a premium quality oil—the new Polarine is sold at no advance in price.

O'NEILL TO HAVE A CREAMERY

Thomas Brennan has closed negotiations for machinery for an up-to-date creamery in his building on Douglas street, next door to the Deep Rock filling station.

This is an advantage the community has needed since the McGinnis creamery burned down twelve years ago. Holt county is destined to become a dairy county, and there is nothing that combines the interest of the community in dairying more than a creamery. It is only with a creamery that the quality and quantity of cream may be raised. As to price, it stands to reason that it is cheaper to store and ship approximately 25 pounds of butter than it is to ship a ten gallon can of cream to a distant point to be churned into 5 pounds of butter. There is less transportation charge, better sanitation and everything in general, all around.

Mr. Brennan has gone into this venture and has put thousands of dollars into equipment to benefit the community and himself. He wants you to give him a try and he guarantees to please. He will not be open for about two weeks yet.

CURRENT COMMENT FROM WASHINGTON

An epidemic of partial paralysis prevails in certain sections of the country, and the malady is laid to jamaica ginger, because some of the paralytics drank that substance and fell sick afterward. It is easy to be led into incorrect diagnosis by confusing sequence with cause and effect. Current conclusions may accomplish good by putting an end to jamaica ginger libations, but in the absence of more light, candid medical men must admit that they can tell neither what caused the disease in the past, nor how it can be averted in the future.

Some months ago, a public official was convicted of accepting a bribe, and now a jury has decided that the man charged with giving him a bribe did not do so. Such a state of affairs sets the head of a layman in a whirl and brings to mind the definition of law as the last guess of the highest guesser in power.

Chicago police say that most of the crimes in the Windy City are committed by non-residents. Criminals flock to the green pastures where the cropping is easy and good, and it is up to the force to explain why thugs prefer to pocket their blackjacks and emigrate from San Antonio and San Francisco to the banks of Lake Michigan.

Russia has put a stop to the production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It is just possible that we have been too harsh and hasty in our condemnation of Soviet rule.

An insurance company notes that accidental death due to auto disasters is the single form of accidental mortality that is on the increase. With two million more machines in the country this year than last, there is no chance that conditions will be bettered in the near future. The fact simply is that highways laid out for ox-cart travel are being called upon to bear a thousand fold increase in vehicular traffic, moving at express train speed. Until a new form of road is devised, or unless the rule that two bodies cannot occupy the same space at the same time is abrogated, the motor car, like David, will kill its tens of thousands.

It is quiet in the jungles; the Prince of Wales is disturbed by nothing worse than the charge of a mad elephant. In Washington he would have had to put up with tariff debates and in London with the arms conference.

Heroes of traffic and travel occupy the front pages of the papers. Dr. Eckener is here to receive a gold medal from the National Geographic Society, and thousands cheer Admiral Byrd as he sails homeward from New Zealand. There is neither medal nor applause for Charles A. Bell of Mansfield, Ohio, and his name is unfamiliar, but let this paragraph bring his faithfulness and the dangers of his calling to notice for a brief moment before he is eternally forgotten. A railroad engineer, he stuck to his post on the 24th of March, while the passenger train which he was pulling slid to safety over his dead body, the momentum checked by the brakes that he had applied.

The Prince and Princess of Monaco have dissolved partnership because her highness wanted to be a surgeon. Perhaps the Prince did not wish competition in the business of skinning visitors at Monte Carlo.
