Bringing Electricity to Holy Land

WHILE JORDAN RIVER rolls on, it will be bringing power, light and prosperity to the people of Palestine. After many years of planning, the ambitious project of the Russian engineer, Rutenberg is at last to become reality, and the Holy Land will be the scene of one of the largest electrical enterprises in Europe. Since the Palestine mandate became effective the Holy Land has seen steady influx of population. And modern methods in working and living are fast superseding primitive conditions in even the smallest settlement. And so the hum of the dynamo is to sound its note of progress, and Jerusalem is to bask in the glow of the arc lamp. The turbulent waters of the Jordan, which at some points falls 100 feet, are to be utilized, and in addition to the harnessing of this power, 25 foot dams are to be erected in this river and the Jermuk River just above the confluence of the two streams. A lake 750 feet wide and 6 miles long is to be built in order to hold the water necessary to generate the power. After three giant turbines have done their work, the water will be turned back to the rivers. It is estimated that there will be an excess current of 6,300 volts, and this power will be transformed to high tension and be then conveyed to the principal transformer station. From this point the power will be conveyed to Haifa and the settlement of Tel Aviv, the all-Jewish city. It is expected that the Rutenberg project will bring much prosperity to Jerusalem and plans are being made for factories and plants on an ambitious scale all calculated to bring the Holy Land in line with progress and modern achievement. Work is being rushed and it is hoped to complete the various units by the Spring.

State May Provide Walks. From Detroit News. The humble roadside pedestrian who has been walking on the rough all these years to avoid being bumped ditch-ward, and has been groping in the motorized public's dust to follow the old-fashioned sport of seeing the countryside on foot, finally has been offered a kindly hand in the form of the state committee of the American Society for Municipal Improvements. "Pedestrian sidewalks" are proposed by John W. Reid, Detroit's commissioner of public works, who is chairman of the committee, to check what he terms the "appalling increase of pedestrian slaughter."

"Gas" Tax Cut Is Sought. From Atlanta Constitution. The motorists of the nation are beginning to utter vigorous protests against the large gasoline and license taxes imposed upon them by the state legislatures. They claim they are being made the scapegoats for other people who should bear a larger share of the load of taxation. In pre-Volstead days it was a favorite resource of legislators to get additional revenue by raising the license fees of liquor dealers, until in many states the liquor people entered politics to elect friendly legislators in self-defense. Now the gasoline tax affords a ready resource and income states the tax per gallon has been hiked steadily to four, five and even six cents per gallon. In Pennsylvania the tax is four cents, with a provision that it shall revert to three cents on July first next. A fight is promised in the legislature between those who wish to keep the four-cent levy on and the motorist associations that demand the promised reduction. It seems that the three cents levy will produce, with the license fees, some $65,000,000, which is more than the highway department can well employ upon the road construction and maintenance in a year. So the motorists appear to have a strong argument for the reduction. But gas taxes are too easily gotten and too increasingly large to be lightly given up by the legislators who want easy money to distribute about among their constituents. The fight that is on, therefore, in Pennsylvania will be watched with considerable interest by motorists in other states who feel the weight of their gasoline expenses.

Q. When did the husking bee go out of existence? D. M. S. A. The husking bee has not gone out of existence. In fact husking today is just as popular and due to the recent prizes offered more profitable than in former times. It is true that husking bees are not the big social event of the fall season as they were a generation or so ago. Radio, automobiles, and good roads have changed the social life of the farm, but today husking is on a highly competitive basis, and several states make a feature of the corn husking contest. In 1912 "To hell with the constitution!" And maybe there is something to be said for his 1930 suggestion.

SUCH A NICE PARTY Harrisburg, Pa.—A party is a nice place to spend the evening, Bozo Opacich believes, but he doesn't like them when they get boisterous. He recently attended one at Chockenick near here and had a fine time until the guests started whooping things up. Just to make the party interesting, they commenced to throw dishes, one of which caught Opacich on the nose and cut the end of it off.

Anecdote That Recalls Farm Life of the Past

President S. H. Thompson of the American Farm Bureau federation said on his return from Europe, where with 30 farmers he had been studying European agriculture: "European farmers know nothing about motor plows or electrical milkers. They are living now pretty much like the farmer's wife of a generation ago."

"A generation ago a preacher held up a farmer and said: "How's your wife today?" "About the same, reverend. Certainly no better."

"Dear one! Too bad. What seems to be the matter with her?" "Well, reverend, I can hardly tell ye, but if she don't get better pretty quick me and the boys'll be all knocked out doing her work."

Insect-Catching Plants

All plants have interesting characteristics, but few are so endlessly mysterious and fascinating as are the insect-catching and insect-devouring plants, of which Florida has an especially large number, comprising species of butterworts, sundews, pitcher plants, and bladderworts. No less than five species of pitcher plants grow in Florida, and the large flowers are so remarkable in form that a writer in 1672 aptly called them "fantastical flowers." Yet the hollow, trumpet-shaped leaves, dotted and veined with white and red and purple, are even more fantastic than the flowers, and most fantastic of all are the means by which these handsome leaves lure and capture and devour their living prey.

American Jewish Farmers

The Jewish Agricultural society has estimated that there are 80,000 Jewish farmers operating a million acres of farm land in the United States. It is largely due to the efforts of this organization that the number is so large. Thirty years ago, at the time of its inception, there were barely a thousand Jews on American farms. The agricultural society not only offers scientific advice, but lends money and assists the farmers in many instances in securing a suitable location.

It is one's duty to be gay, occasionally, to keep people from classifying him as a grouch.

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like. It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.
