APPEALS CASE TO HIGH COURT Administratrix of Knox County Estate Thinks District Court Erred

Lincolu, Neb .- (Speciai) - An appeal has been filed with the supreme court by the administratrix of the estate of Moses L. Montgomcry from a decision of the district court of Knox county which held that her petition did not state cause of action.

H. A. Cheney and Montgomery had signed a $10,000 bond for City Treasurer Luneberg, of Creighton, and when the Security State bank of that place failed, the city filed a claim against Montgomery's estate for the entire loss.

The administratrix claims that she filed the suit in an effort to compel the co-security, Cheney, and the city to interplead and to determine if the estate had to pay the total loss or whether Cheney must pay a part. She thought to avoid a multiplicity of suits and to get speedy justice.

ASSERTS BEES RECOGNIZE HIM

Omaha Apiarist Says They Seldom Sting Except When Being "Robbed"

Omaha, Neb- Two and a halt tons of honey are stored on the 20acre farm of Frank A. Floral, in the more than a million bees in his 85 hives continue to add to the store.

Mr. Foral has no fear of overproduction. Both the quantity of honey and the number of bees are small when compared with the stocks of other professional beekeepers.

"Honey has for ages been a sweet in a class by itself, and therefore neither a competitor with other sweets nor subject to their fluctuations in price," said Mr. Foral.

"Overproduction is not probable because so few persons understand keeping bees and are willing to brave a few of their stings. Then the bees themselves have an uncanny way of choosing their keepers. My bees seem to recognize me as their friend and seldom sting me, unless late in the summer or early autumn months, when we had gin to rob them."

BUS OPERATOR GETS HEARING

Rail Board to Investigate Complaint Against Hartington, Neb., Man

Lincoln, Neb. -(Special)- The complaint of B. W. Wright, bus operator of Wayne, against Fred Nuttleman, also a bus driver, is to be heard by the state railway commission a 3:30 p. m. September 24 in the district court room at Hartington.

Wright, who operates a bus line in the northeastern part of the state, charges Nuttleman with reckless driving and with the malicious intention of forcing the Wright bus off the highway, four miles south of Ponca, September 13. He claims that when the Nuttleman bus passed him at a high rate of speed it forced him into the ditch, en-dangering the lives of four passengers that were with him.

Nuttleman was given permission by the rail commission in 1928 to operate the White Star bus line between Sioux City and Hartington.

SHERIFF FINDS BABE'S MOTHER

Abandonment Case at Albion, Neb., Has Unusual Angles

Albion, Neb. - (Special) - The mother of the "doorstep baby" left on the porch of Mrs. Lena Nore at 8 p. m. August 17, has been identified as Mrs. Mable Condreay, wife of Sidney Condreay, of Big Springs, according to Sheriff Smoyer who investigated the facts and turned them over to state officers. Mrs. Condreay was brought here for questioning.

The Condreay family has been living at Grand Island and have four children. Some months ago, Mr. Condreay and two of the children went to Big Springs, where she kept house for Albert Fitchorn. The husband and other children stayed at Grand Island. She claims that Fitchhorn is the father of the child she abandoned, after he failed to meet her at Central City. He was to help her find a home for the child after a conference with her and her husband, she said. The baby was born at Big Springs, May 6.

When Fitchhorn failed to keep nis engagement, Mrs. Condreay said she came to Albion and left the baby at the Nore home, not knowing who lived there.

The baby was taken to Lincoln oy Miss Marie Mansfield of the state home for dependent children and will be adopted. The mother was allowed to depart without punishment. The husband had said he would provide for her and her child.

FIND BONES OF BUFFALO OF PREHISTORIC AGE

Newman Grove, Neb. - (UP) -Fossil remains of a large animal, unearthed near here by men working the roads, were found to be the bones of a bison of the pleistocene age by investigators from the University of Nebraska.

Working under the direction of Prof. E. H. Barbour, Paul McGrew and Bertrand Schults, assistants in the department of geology, came to Newman Grove and examined the bones found four miles north and one west of here. The pleistocene age, which was that of the specimen, was the age of glaciers, and this finding was the first specimen of fessils found in this part of the state in such an age, they said.

The fossils were found about eight feet below the surface of the ground, in peorian loess, deposited prior to the last glacier which covered this section of the state.

FINE CROPS GROWN

IN OLD LAKE BED Wall Lake-A fine crop of popcorn, potatoes, and field corn has taken the place of the cat-tails and pond lilies which formerly reigned in the swamp southwest of Wall lake, known to duck and geese hunters the state over as the "Old Goose pond." Over 1,000 acres of land has been reclaimed and according to old timers a bumper crop is assured in spite of the drought which has affected the entire country. Nearly half of the entire acreage is in popcorn, 40 acres in potatoes, and the rest in field corn.

Potatoes are being harvested at this time and about 20 men are employed in picking them up. Twenty-two acres of the 40 are Early Ohio while the remaining 18 are Irish Cobbler. It is estimated that the former will yield about 90 bushels to the acre while the latter will average better than 125 to the acre. The potatoes as a whole run exceptionally good in quality and the size uniform. The seed for the Cobbler variety was obtained from Rhinelander, Wis., and according to the owners, was the best obtainable.

The plot is being managed by Quirk and Meyer of Wall Lake.
