

There May be Poison in YOUR Bowels!

STEP out tomorrow morning with the fresh buoyancy and briskness that comes from a clean intestinal tract. Syrup Pepsin—a doctor's prescription for the bowels—will help you do this. This compound of fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other pure ingredients will clean you out thoroughly—without griping, sickening or discomfort.

Poisons absorbed into the system form souring waste in the bowels, cause that dull, headachy, sluggish, bilious condition; coat the tongue; foul the breath; sap energy, strength and nerve-force. A little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will clear up trouble like that gently, harmlessly, in a hurry. The difference it will make in your feelings over night will prove its merit to you.

Dr. Caldwell studied bowel troubles for forty-seven years. This long experience enabled him to make his prescription just what men, women, old people and children need to make their bowels help themselves. Its natural, mild, thorough action and its pleasant taste commend it to everyone. That's why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin," as it is called, is the most popular laxative drug stores sell.

White Woman's Clothes Made Savages Curious

An American archeologist and writer who recently led an airplane expedition into Latin America brought back a great deal of interesting and valuable material in the way of pictures of ancient ruins and primitive life. The most interesting experience was that among the San Blas Indians, who inhabit the islands off the shore of Guatemala, whose attire consisted largely of gold rings worn in the ears and nose. Their curiosity about the visitors was intense and sometimes embarrassing. The leader of the expedition was alarmed to see his wife seized by a number of native women and carried into a tent. The guide was sent to protect her, but soon returned and said that the lady was safe. It developed that the native women were curious about her clothing and she obliged them by removing a great deal of her dry goods.

Amazes Mother

"Bobbie's stomach was often upset and she suffered a lot from colds," says Mrs. P. S. Fletcher, Jr., 4410 W. 30th St., Los Angeles, Cal. "We found he was constipated."

"Mother used California Fig Syrup, so we gave Bobbie some. He amazed me by the quick way he became strong, energetic, well again. His bowels act freely now, and his digestion is splendid."

The quick, safe way to cleanse and regulate the bowels of bilious, headachy, constipated children is with California Fig Syrup. Every child loves it. It has the full endorsement of doctors. Appetite is increased by its use; digestion is assisted; weak stomach and bowels are given tone and strength.

Look for the word California on the carton. That marks the genuine, famous for 50 years.

NEW METHOD CULTURE LEADS TO FOUNDING OF WORLD'S LARGEST CELERY GROWING FARM

"Banking long rows of celery (top) on the "world's largest" single celery farm near Stockton, Cal., is followed by harvesting (lower left) and packing (lower right).

Stockton, Cal. — More than a square mile of celery in a single bed—approximately 21,450,000 bunches in all—and each one planted by hand.

That comprises what is called the world's largest individual celery farm.

This acreage, furthermore, is more than doubled by nearby tracts also controlled by J. C. Maurer and his four sons near here.

If all celery plants grown by father and sons were in a single row, spaced the customary six inches, it would stretch more than 7,180 miles—more than twice the distance across the continent.

In 40 years' celery experience in New York state, Maurer accumulated some ideas about how celery could be grown in California. They were rather unique and wholly theoretical, but he was eager to try them.

Five years ago he succeeded in interesting his sons in a western migration. Two abandoned college careers to participate in the family venture.

They started with 140 acres and added to it yearly, yet the achievement is more one of innovation and method than of mere magnitude.

Unlike New York, Michigan or other celery-producing areas, rains cannot be expected to keep plants alive in the transplanting season in the San Joaquin valley.

So the Maurers adopted a method of flooding land under six inches to a foot of water. The soil is peat sediment, so trenching has to be done when the ground is so soft that horses frequently bog.

After much experimentation, an average of 120 crates per acre has been achieved for the farm as a whole, with 250 crates an acre for some of the tract.

Through improved methods of culture, blanching and packing, the California product is able to compete in the New York market—the world's largest for celery—despite the long freight haul.

More than 8,000 acres are harvested in the delta region of California, where a few years ago none was grown.

RECESSION FINDS CREDIT CHEAPER THAN FOR YEARS

New York — The business recession of 1930 has contrasted strikingly with that of 1921 in the apparent abundance of credit available for any promising commercial enterprise.

Not only in 1921, but in most depressed periods of the last 50 years, the situation has been aggravated by frozen credit and high rates for funds to carry on essential business.

This year, however, has witnessed a drastic cheapening of credit, particularly short term credit. Call money has been offered day after day at 1 per cent against the 1929 peak of 20 per cent.

The United States treasury was recently able to offer six-month certificates with a coupon rate of only 1 1/2 per cent, the lowest since

Not Quinine Enthusiast. (Elmer C. Adams in the Detroit News.)

Last week unnoticed by the world at large a company of devoted men assembled and quietly celebrated the three hundredth anniversary of the discovery of quinine and its use in the cure of malaria.

Unnoticed, and happily so. I cannot go into raptures on the subject of quinine. I have no malaria. I never did have any malaria. Nevertheless I have in my time swallowed barrels of quinine for whatever was the matter with me. For measles, rash, spring fever, whooping cough, coated tongue, growing pains, and the government inaugurated this form of short term borrowing.

It has been true, particularly in the later months of the year, however, that the abundant credit available has been handled with considerable conservatism.

The freeing of credit dammed up in the security markets has been on a vast scale. Figures for actual brokerage loans, as represented by total borrowings of New York stock exchange members, have dropped to little more than $2,000,000,000, compared to nearly $4,000,000,000 at the start of last year and the peak of about $8,500,000,000 on October 1, 1922.

HAND COUNTY 4-H CLUB
Miller, S. D.—(AP)—Hand county 4-H baby pork club members raised 6,711 pounds of pork in carrying out their projects this year. It was shown by a summary compiled by N. N. DeLong, district club agent with headquarters at Faulkton.

Divided up into pigs, this tree being late for school I was dosed in my helpless youth with that bitter specific. Nor did it come in the innocuous capsule form, but naked, raw and terrible on the end of a teaspoon, or mixed with sugar, or fiendishly hidden in a jam sandwich.

Quinine in those days would cure more ailments than the violet ray machine cures today—and a hundred times quicker. Quicker? Why, while mother was taking three steps between you and the medicine shelf every symptom would miraculously vanish.

Quinine, I hear, is still going strong. It needs no poor words tons of pork represents 38 head. The baby porkers were fed by the 4-H club boys for a period of 102 days, from May 16 to August 26, during which time they made an average gain of 134 pounds, or 1.31 pounds a day.

The champion pig, owned and shown by Robert Hancock, made an average gain of 190 pounds, or a total of 194 pounds. The Duroc barrow of Marion Campbell was second with an average daily gain of 1.68 pounds and a total of 172 pounds.

Q. Was the drought last summer worse than any that has preceded it? A. M. C.

A. It was the severest in the climatological history of the central and eastern portions of the United States. The growing season from March to August was the driest of record in the Middle Atlantic states and the Ohio and middle Mississippi valleys.

Can't PLAY Can't REST

—child needs Castoria

WHEN a child is fretful and irritable, seems distressed and uncomfortable, can't play, can't sleep, it is a pretty sure sign that something is wrong. Right here is where Castoria fits into a child's scheme—the very purpose for which it was formulated years ago! A few drops and the condition which caused the trouble is righted; comfort quickly brings restful sleep.

Nothing can take the place of Castoria for children; it's perfectly harmless, yet always effective. For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an every-day aid. Its gentle action will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. In more liberal doses it will effectively help to regulate sluggish bowels in an older child. All druggists have Castoria; it's genuine if you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature and this name-plate:

"Proud Man" Powerless Before Wiles of Woman

If they cannot see you at 10 o'clock, could they see you at 4, when will you be free? They have counted upon your help. They know that you would help. They want your help, and nobody else's help will do.

The matter is so vital and they ask for so little. You could not be indifferent. You could not be opposed. Surely a man in your position and with the public interest at heart, who need only say the word and the thing will be done.

They argue and beg, they beseech and implore, they flatter and cajole. They exalt you and debase you. They praise you and threaten you. They wheedle and annoy. They suggest and demand, they respectfully present, they exhort and direct.

They grow facetious, they wax sarcastic, they become abusive. They reproach you and malign you. They urge and insist. They counsel and admonish. They cheer and compliment. They reprove and scorn, slander and vilify, disparage and hiss.

They blame and censure, denounce and repudiate. They rant and rave. They coax and eulogize. They pester and badger. They point out and plead. They caress and fondle, pamper and embrace you. They pet and spoil, coddle and indulge you.

They defame, defile, maltreat, molest, persecute and oppress, ill-use, extol and laud, rail at and favor, panegyrize and vituperate, abuse, uphold and vindicate, humble and humiliate, overawe and mortify, confuse and embarrass, shame and inspire, rally and animate, abash, confound, disconcert and dishearten. At last they get what they want.

For what, in the face of such an attack, is a poor, defenseless man to do?—Baltimore Sun.

Colorado Land Holdings

The United States government is by far the largest land holder in the state of Colorado, according to the state immigration bureau. While precise figures are impossible to compile because of conflicts of reserves, withdrawals and classifications, the bureau estimates that the government owns or controls 37 per cent of the entire surface area of the state.
