Stronger Than Ever!

New Deere Gang with Tractor Plow Strength

Wherever gang plows are used, the John Deere has for over 30 years enjoyed a reputation for strength and long life. Now, the improved New Deere Gang Plow is even stronger and even more entitled to its place of leadership.
 For instance, the wheels and wheel boxings of the New Deere and the beams and beam bracing are stronger than ever. The beams now have tractor-plow strength—only high-carbon steel being used.

The heavy rear brace, as strong as on a tractor plow, laps along the beams and is securely held by large bolts and heavy nuts.
 When you are ready to buy a plow, remember that for more than a generation the New Deere Gang has been the most satisfactory and popular plow in this region. It is stronger, has lighter draft, and is equipped with genuine John Deere bottoms, the world's standard for clean scouring, good work and long wear.

Come in and see this gang plow with tractor plow strength.
