Like Coffee . . . the best Gasoline is Blended

THE sun beams cheerfully through an eastern window. The subtle fragrance of the morning coffee adds zest to the morning air, advance notice of the joy to come as you give the "cup test" to the coffee blend of your choice. Coffee roasting is important, of course, but the most skillful roaster cannot make a popular coffee from just one type of coffee bean.

The coffee connoisseur would not deign to drink coffee made from a single type of bean. Neither should the thoughtful motorist allow an un-blended gasoline to go into his fuel tank. Gasoline must be blended if it is to possess all the vital properties contained in the three types of gasoline.

CONOCO Gasoline is blended, just as carefully as the finest coffee.

In CONOCO blended gasoline you'll find: Natural Gasoline, for quick starting; Straight-run Gasoline, for power and long mileage; Cracked Gasoline, for its anti-knock qualities. Motorists are fast learning that this is so. The result is a fast increasing group of gasoline connoisseurs who have added to their knowledge of the good things of life the fact that good gasoline must be blended.

The CONOCO Red Triangle marks the spots where CONOCO Balanced-Blend Gasoline may be found. Try it today.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES

The next State Teachers' Examinations will be held on Saturday, April 18th instead of on April 8th, as the date was printed on the report cards. There is an error in print on these cards. These examinations will be given at Atkinson, O'Neill and Ewing.

District 213, near Stuart, Frances Slaymaker, teacher, held a box social in February. They recently sent $7 of their proceeds to aid in the relief in Arkansas.

At the local spelling contest held in Stuart last week, a typewriting contest was held as an added attraction. The winner, a first year student, typed a perfect copy of 62 words per minute.

Sylvia Jeffries, teacher of district 18 1/2, Deloit, reports that on St. Patrick's day, 11 patrons of the school gave her quite a surprise by coming to visit the school about 2:30 and bringing with them a fine lunch which they served at 4 o'clock.

In a recent letter from Charles W. Taylor, State Superintendent, to the County Superintendents, he states that numerous complaints have been received regarding agents who are annoying teachers and pupils in rural schools, claiming to be school inspectors representing the State Department of Public Instruction. Mr. Taylor asks that we notify teachers that only the following are authorized inspectors of the State Department of Youth. (Miss Simons is presenting this work in connection with the state program of character education.) Representatives of this office are at all times kindly and sympathetic—an attitude very much unlike the trouble-making, threatening manner of these reported imposters. The State Legislature in 1929 passed a law prohibiting peddlers from soliciting orders from teachers during school hours. Please notify this office by phone whenever any of these agents or imposters annoy you during school hours. Such offenders should be apprehended and prosecuted. If there is no phone in the school house, arrangements may be made to have one or two of the older pupils go to the nearest farm home to telephone. Mr. Taylor also states, "Tragedies of recent blizzards should serve to convince school boards as to the necessity of installing telephones in the school buildings."
