

In Wake of Nicaraguan Quake

This picture graphically tells the story of the earthquake and resultant fire that took a toll of more than 2,000 lives and untold property loss in Nicaragua. Above is a typical scene in the once fair city of Managua, where natives search for remnants of their belongings in the ruins of their homes. United States Marines are aiding gallantly to alleviate the sufferings of the people.

Flier Is Born, Not Made

And this little boy was literally born a flier—the first infant to see the light of day in an airplane cabin. The cabin had to be turned into an emergency maternity ward, while the mother, Mrs. Alex Miller, an Indian woman, was being rushed to hospital at the Pas, Manitoba, Can. Boy was named "Lindy."

Prince's Aide

Lieutenant-Commander Ellis M. Zacharias, U. S. Navy, one of the six qualified speakers of Japanese in the American Navy, has been appointed U. S. Naval aide to His Imperial Highness Prince Takamatsu, of Japan, for the entire period of the latter's visit to the United States. The Nippon Prince is brother to the Emperor of Japan.

Duce's Youngest

Although she is usually well hidden in the shadow of her illustrious husband, Signora Benito Mussolini, wife of the Premier of Italy, consented to pose with her youngest son, Roman.

Sets New Autogiro Record

Amelia Earhart, famed trans-Atlantic aviatrix, soaring high in the air at Philadelphia, as she took off in an effort to break the woman's altitude record of 27,418 feet. She failed on account of gas running low, but she did set a woman's autogiro record of 19,000 feet.

To Wed N.Y. Broker

During the first week of June, the month of brides, Jeanette MacDonald (above), musical comedy and screen star, will become the bride of Robert G. Ritchie, New York stock broker

Raid Yields Bandit Equipment

Revolvers, loaded dice, keys, masks and various other burglar tools were found in the New York apartment of Jack Holdcroft, held as a witness in the Vivian Gordon murder inquiry. A detective is wearing one of the masks discovered in the cache of bandit equipment.

New Evening Mode

Tallulah Bankhead, well-known movie star, is wearing a black chiffon evening gown embroidered with crystals and rhinestones. A short jacket, trimmed with black fox, completes the ensemble.

Beware of Gifts

Mrs. Marjorie Ardell, of New York, learned this when two bandits, posing as messengers, delivering Easter flowers, bound her and escaped with $18,000 jewelry.

Wins-Loses

But in losing she was a winner, too! Here's how: Miss Lillian Moriarti, chosen "most charming sports girl of 1928," won her wings at the East Boston Airport, but in so doing lost her heart to Lieut. Cracker Snow, her flying instructor. But she won a husband, or will have soon, for they are to be married shortly, announcement of their engagement says.

Cult Murder Laid to Jealousy

Mrs. Frances Thomsen, 29, (left) Wellesley graduate and mother of three children, is held at Wilkes-Barre, Penn., on a charge of killing Miss Minnie Dilley, 76, (right) wealthy spinster. Authorities ascribed the murder to Mrs. Thomsen's belief that the aged spinster had exercised an "influence" over her husband, Carl Thomsen, and because she feared a "love cult" which, it is alleged, the slain woman wished to establish with Thomsen's aid.

Their Own Medicine

Holding up holdups is the very latest in crime annals. Three detectives tried it with great success when they were "tipped" about a forthcoming holdup in Brooklyn, N. Y. Four armed men walked in with drawn guns. Detectives stepped out from a hiding place and quietly told the holdups to "put 'em up!" They fled. A window escape failed and all four were nabbed. Two were shot. (L. to r.): Harry Steinman, Sidney Wallman and Nathan Hoffman.

Broke, Sells Papers

Barred from the legitimate race tracks, Mark Fator (above) hobbles along with a crutch under one arm and a stack of newspapers on the streets of Paterson, N. J. Fator's fall has been much more rapid than his sensational rise to stardom as a jockey.

Taken by Death

Death has ended the distinguished career of Colonel Michael Friedman (above) as merchant, soldier, banker, art patron, philanthropist and tireless worker in behalf of the welfare of New York City.

Picture Locates Wife in Reno

The proof is in the seeing. So when William E. Young, of New York, saw the above picture in his favorite newspaper, he found out for the first time in six months just what his wife Iva was doing and where she was doing it. Mrs. Young (extreme right) is shown with other divorce seekers at one of the many roulette tables in Reno, Nev.

Too Young to Realize

Knute Roeske's children, Mary Jeanne and Jackie, were wide-eyed when they reached Chicago on their way to South Bend, Ind. They seemed lost in wonder that their dear daddy should have left them.
