The President told members that he wants to start cutting wherever possible but when he suggested a cut of $220,000,000 in roads, he met opposition. Most everybody admits we should start cutting, but no one will suggest or agree to start cutting on any particular government activity. There is a general feeling that a uniform cut of 20 per cent in all activities would pass the House. But the Army and Navy won't stand for any cuts in their appropriations. So when and where the cuts are to start seems to be a problem. Departments which do overlapping work don't want any cuts in their activities.

121 Millions Forgotten

There are $121,842,955.26 worth of Uncle Sam's obligations outstanding which are matured and on which we have quit paying interest. All of these are payable at par on demand. They include some postal savings bonds, first, second, third, fourth Liberty bonds, Victory notes, etc. Somebody has these government certificates. They are either buried, lost, or just forgotten in safety deposit boxes or in storage somewhere. Anyway Uncle Sam isn't paying interest on them, but is willing to pay in full if holders present them for payment.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Balleweg and Mr. and Mrs. William Stover and son, Earl, of Creighton, Neb., visited Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Hoffman and family.

and Mrs. John G. Hoffman and family.

Mrs. Thomas Sendlak, who had been here since Christmas visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Enright, returned to her home at Norfolk last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Oppen of Creighton, were in the city the latter part of last week. Mr. Oppen attended a meeting of the Interstate Power employees while Mrs. Oppen spent the day visiting at the home of her son, James Oppen and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Lod Janousek, Mr. and Mrs. John Valla, Vic Halva and family and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Chudomelka, of Inman, visited at the Charles Novak home at Bristow last Sunday. Mr. Novak had just returned from treatment in the hospital at Lynch.

Mrs. Ted McElhaney entertained eighteen ladies with a dinner party at the Bakery last Tuesday evening and later with bridge at her home. Those present report having had an enjoyable evening.

James Feehan of Greeley, Nebr., and Andrew Quigley of Chicago, arrived in the city last Sunday for a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams. Mr. Feehan is a brother of Mrs. Williams and Mr. Quigley an uncle. They returned to Greeley Tuesday. Mr. Quigley informed us that he was in this city in 1879 on his way to the Black Hills and he said there was quite a change in this section since those days. Mr. Quigley has been a resident of Chicago for many years.

At 86 His Hand Retains Its Skill

Today is the 86th Birthday of one of the pioneers who helped build Omaha; a man who is still the active head of the great business he founded here 62 years ago.

When Gottlieb Storz opened his brewery in 1876 he was already one of America's great brewmasters. He had learned his art under the famed brewmasters of Wuertemberg. He had made a name for himself in Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Noted for his knack of making beer of unusually good flavor, it was not long before Storz Beer was the favorite beer of this part of the west. Four times he entered international competitions and four times Storz Beer won the World's Championship. Eighty-six candles light his birthday cake today, every one marking a year of achievement. His hand has retained its skill. Storz Beer is still the fastest selling beer in Nebraska.
