SHIELDS

Neighbors from all directions gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Klingler a short time after they had retired for the night to help celebrate Mrs. Klingler's birthday which fell on Sunday, April 4. She is well posted and versed on all the topics of the day, but had no idea of the real surprise that her numerous friends had kept under their hat. Mrs. Klingler received many gifts and cards from far and near. After the cat got out of the bag, she began to realize from the baskets that her faithful friends came fully equipped to participate in a celebration. In a jiffy every thing was arranged for the evening. And did we celebrate? I'll say we did!

Tables were arranged for the final contest. Dennis Murphy, Anna Earley and Erma Goldfuss upset the apple cart and copped the prize after a hard fought battle. However, it was the entertainment before the game and between the halves that caused the event to be the great success it was, by cinching the last round-up.

The musical part of the program consisted of the ever pleasing Irish melodies sung by Clarence Murphy, Mary Earley, Pete and Mrs. Farewell, Bob Earley, Elmer Steskal, Mr. and Mrs. Dobash and Mr. Goldfuss. Accompanied on the piano by Miss Muriel Murphy, the songs included "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "Mother Machree," "My Wild Irish Rose," "Prison Song," and "Nobody's Darling But Mine."

The coming of spring usually brings with it the budding of many activities from all sides. And the pretty colleens served refreshments prepared by the participants.

When a recess for the social hour was announced and Mr. Klingler favored us all with a recital on conditions that are creating a national disturbance. He said all civilized nations agree that war should be a last resort and it is not likely that fratricidal young men of today will attract the ranks as it did in 1917. A Congress which should attempt to declare the existence of a state of war between the U. S. and a foreign country would, unless the justice of the cause were abundantly plain, find itself in a war with its own citizens. If they learn something of the present temper of our people war will become decidedly more remote. All seemed to agree with his timely advice, with general applause.

They then all settled down for the balance of the program which lasted until about 4:30, when all returned to their homes, extending congratulations and wishing Mrs. Klingler many happy returns of the day. E. E.
