SOUTHWEST BREEZES

According to estimates of an official at Washington, government checks are now going to twenty million homes. State, county and municipal sub-divisional officials and job holders add several more million. Why not make it unanimous and send a monthly remittance to the rest of us?

Managers of the nation's business have accumulated a 37 billion dollar debt thru the years that rests upon the shoulders of the citizens. Managers of the business of various states have laid another 20 billion to that burden. County boards, township, city and village governing bodies have added still more. Individuals have "plastered" their lands, livestock, equipment, home, furniture, automobile and incomes. The latest New Deal pump priming will boost the federal debt to 41 billions. And so the "richest country on earth" is rather badly managed.

"Stately and still as a ship at sea" wild ducks pilot themselves on the water where the family garden plot has been the past few seasons. Ditches along the roadside are filled and natural water courses have resumed the old-time flow. Rain has touched the earth as with magic wand and the southwest blooms across a far-flung landscape in shimmering green. Wild flowers unfold a fragrant and colorful tribute and the lordly cotton woods wave a fresh new foliage.

In the calm of evening, the full moon silently ascending its lustrous way out of the east, myriads of frogs join in harsh but glad-some chorus that rains have come to us again.

Transportation on the wing and by auto has not replaced the man on the horse in the southwest. At this season he is a busy rider moving cattle to the summer feeding grounds. Early last week Doolittle moved a herd to the P. J. Kennedy ranch and next day riders with their big hats, boots, and spurs from a ranch up north took a bunch of yearlings thru here going to the ranges farther west. Another day a lone rider on a blazed-face sorrel and leading a second horse came from 15 miles west to meet over at the highway a bunch of cattle that were trucked in from Madison county. His extra horse was for a rider coming in with the cattle, which were driven to the Robinson neighborhood on the west line of the county. These movements of droves have been of daily occurrence the past week.

John Brennan Writes

Enclosing a pressed flower and mailing under separate cover an interesting folder of the Hoover dam—named changed I believe to Boulder dam thru official pique—I received last week an interesting letter from John Brennan, a native son of O'Neill, now at Salt Lake City. John is an ardent supporter of the Roosevelt program and says we need a dictator like Stalin. Not many who themselves or their ancestors have worn the uniform of freedom share his views in this respect, but they will enter no controversy over his expressed special admiration of Mrs. Franklin D. John says we have been misinformed about Mormons and relief as $269,000,000 government money has been sent into Utah since 1933. "Somebody received it," he observes, "as there are hardly more than 269 Gentiles."

Quoting further: "I see there are a good many leaving Here today. There are a good many leaving here. But where some advantages are gained many are lost. It is hard to find a better place than where you are, for when you move you leave your old-time friends behind. And you have to live longer in the new place than you did in the old one to find as good friends as you left—if you can live that long. Old friends, old horses, old shoes—they always fit you best. John Joseph and Carrie are both working. I still work once in a while at the advertising. We are not setting Utah on fire."

Miss Marie Biglin, an O'Neill girl, is mentioned and John says further: "The big mines have let out close to 900 men and officers' salaries have been cut 10 per cent. Too much metal already mined and no market."

"Mrs. Tom Kearns gave her half million dollar home to the state—coaxed authorities to take it. Brigham street has several almost as good with broken windows and pigeon nests. Hundreds of other expensive homes are going up all over the city."

Wonder if these "hundreds of other expensive homes" are some of the Roosevelt housing program, but John seems to take great comfort in his belief that old Utah would not now be on Uncle Sam's map were it not for the grand scale on which his political god scatters borrowed money.

Appropriate to this wet spring, John reminds us of flood times of long ago when his father would lock up the hardware store and take all hands with new shovels and join the force of citizens in efforts to save the bridges south of town. With that whole stretch of country inundated and water sloshing up to the railroad tracks it was not always possible to save the bridges. But there are structures in now that will probably resist the washing of great waters.

John says the exporting and importing of certain trees and shrubs are prohibited by law in Utah and they have a sales tax and heavy liquor tax. "We have a double government here—the church and federal, the former the stronger. The top men are pretty well healed but the largest per cent are way below average and live very close to the soil. I will vote for Roosevelt as long as he runs, or would like to see Mrs. Roosevelt president."

You Can Have One Of These Lanterns As A Free Gift!

You will find this lantern very useful. It is two lights in one, a long range focusing light in front and a broad beam flood light on top, both operated by a single switch on the back of the lamp. Farmers find it very useful as it eliminates the danger of fire which is present in lights using a flame. It is also very useful around a car at night, or for any short errand in the dark where light may be needed for a few minutes.

This lantern uses standard flashlight batteries and bulbs, so it is something that will serve you for a long time, and that will not be useless when the first set of batteries are used up.

A YEARS ADVANCE SUBSCRIPTION ENTITLES YOU TO ONE FREE!

Anyone who pays a years advance subscription to The Frontier, will receive one of these lanterns free, as a gift. The offer is open to anyone. Don't fumble in the dark or take chances with matches. Play safe by letting one of the Kwik Lite lanterns light your way.

If your subscription is paid in advance and you do not care to advance it further at this time you may have the lantern free by merely paying 40c to cover the cost of the two batteries and bulbs required to operate it. No other obligation.
