SOUTHWEST BREEZES

 any effective, decided and sledgehammer knockout of the forces wrecking the country must come now from the "minority party."

The classic profile of Thomas Jefferson is the latest to appear on the 3-cent stamps. The New Dealer builds the tombs of the prophets and garnishes the sepulchres of the righteous, but has no use for a Thomas Jefferson democrat in the flesh.

When the federal and state road builders get the existing highways relocated, paralled, duplicated and hooked up with all the village main streets perhaps isolated rural communities may look for something to be done about the farm-to-market highways.

When the country got in the dumps under Grover Cleveland the mere announcement of the election of William McKinley swung us into prosperity, over night. The New Dealers have been at it now for about six years and have just driven industry to the wall.

Virginia Brennan—whether or not one of our Holt county girls I am not informed—knew right off the bat which job to retain when orders were issued banning political activity by employes of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, were she held a job in the Omaha office and also served as treasurer of the Young Democrats club. The young demos are looking for another treasurer.

Another pension idea has lumbered into Nebraska from California. Retire at 50 on $30 a week. Now, that is something like it. Why wait a whole month for your handout? Wouldn't payment every day be still better? And the age limit shows discretion. After attaining "old age" what good is a lot of pension money? We hope John Gaughenbaugh sees that this thing is put across right away in Nebraska.

It is something of a shock to frost-bitten ranchers out this way who had been nibbling at the bait of land sharks from the sunny south to learn that the country's No. 1 bread problem lies south of the Mason and Dixon line. They had been led to believe that the south flowed with milk and honey and it was folly to remain where they had to battle with snow and ice. A few turned their faces that way who have since come north.

Haying in the southwest is lapping over into September this season. There has been a heavy crop, with general complaint of difficult mowing. Many tractor mowers have been in use and those operating these have found it necessary to put in sharp sickles about every two hours. In addition to the abundance of hay, satisfactory yields of oats and rye have been stored and from here south to Burwell there are many promising fields of corn.

As what seems likely to go on forever, oats start out at threshing time again this season at 15 cents, rye 25 cents to 30 cents and wheat around 48, while all farm equipment costs steadily more from year to year, some machinery now being double the price of twenty-five years ago. Reduced yields and increased taxes add to the perplexities of that numerous group engaged in the hard grind of working the soil. Down here in the southwest much of this is escaped by reliance on the grass the Creator has placed at our disposal. It puts the beef on Herefords and Shorthorns while a few ambitious ranchers play around a little at farming.

The 4-year-old deftly tore a strip from an old newspaper, neatly rolled it into the form of a cigarette, wet the loose edge with his tongue just like dad, completed the process by sticking it fast, gave one end a little twist and put the finished product in his mouth. A juvenile of exceedingly tender age giving a perfect performance of an adult "rolling 'em." Two men and a boy not over 12 went into a saloon in a Holt county town. The boy proposed to take pop. "No, three beers for three men," ordered an adult of the trio. So in violation—or contempt—of the law drink was served to an unwilling young boy. Thus two more are early started to become enmeshed in the chains of habit and contribute of their substance to the vast millions in money yearly flowing into these industries.

(Chicago Tribune)
 The offense Senator George has given Mr. Roosevelt may be illustrated by what he said when the sitdown strikes and the attendant lawlessness were being discussed in the senate.

"Who involved the president of the United States in this situation?" the senator asked. "I did not. The senate did not. John Lewis did. We had just as well confront that fact. He stood on the house tops of this land and in an excess of arrogance announced that he had elected Mr. Roosevelt president; that he had contributed a half million dollars to the campaign fund and demanded that the president of the United States come to his deliverance and take his side. That is the way it started. Capital did not start it. The owners did not start it. John Lewis started it and America will finish it—do not worry about that."

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Lewis think that in Mr. Camp they will have in the senate from Georgia a man who will not say such things.

The O'Neill High School will make every effort to provide such training in its Commercial Department.

Normal Training

This course meets fully the requirements of the State Department of Public Instruction for preparation of rural teachers, and should be selected by high school students who expect to make teaching a career. If electives are carefully chosen, this course meets college entrance requirements.

College Preparatory

Students who are looking forward to a college career will find the preparation they need in the sound academic training offered in this course.

Home Economics

The usual course in home economics will provide an opportunity for girls to study cooking, sewing, and home making.

Athletics

A sound body is as desirable as a sound mind, and every opportunity will be given for the development of both. Football, basketball and track will be scheduled.

Music

The courses in band and glee club will be arranged so as to offer a greater opportunity than ever before for students interested in music. Mr. Ira George, the new member of the faculty in this department, is known throughout the state as a very superior instructor in band music. Under his instruction O'Neill High School may look forward to the development of the best band in the history of the school.
