LOWER FARM PRICES
over the 1923-1925 September average.

Comparing September prices serves to illustrate the present low return to farmers from the products they sell. September prices of wheat, oats, cotton and wool are the lowest for the corresponding month since 1932; of corn, the lowest since 1933; of sheep and hogs, the lowest since 1934; and of milk and potatoes, since 1935.

It must be remembered too that prices are now figured in sixty cent rather than 100 cent dollars which makes the present price, in gold values, the lowest of modern record. Crop curtailment has resulted in the loss of much of our foreign market. The Department of Commerce says it hopes to make this up by increasing the domestic market. But how can we do this by lowering the tariff on foreign made goods and thus decreasing the power of the American workers to buy the products of our farmers?

THE NEBRASKA SCENE

By the Lowell Service
Lincoln, Nebraska—Behind the scenes out in the state, a most peculiar rebellion seems to be taking place.

Members of the unicameral legislature, apparently suspicious of the metropolitan organs of news dissemination, held informal caucuses here and there. According to reports coming from the state house, the set-up for the next legislature is cut to pattern and kiln dried. There will be no influential urbanites in the positions of power, controlling taxation and old age pensions.

"A feeling prevails," said a new term from mid state, "that the other forty-seven states of the union may have discovered some meritorious angles of the taxation question." It is believed that an agreement has been reached on the speakership.

Dr. Claire E. Owens, defeated by John E. Mekota in the Twenty-third, takes a fall out of the legislative council. After criticizing the part played by the political science department of the state university in outlining the unicameral setup in 1935, she declares:

"During the first session, it had the forty-three membership whittled down to a 'legislative committee' of fifteen, which has spent a lot of time and a lot of the taxpayers money in taking a short course in political science and adopting reports from the investigations made by Dr. Shumate.
"Now that the lessons are over, controversy arose as to whether or not these reports should be tossed upon the desks, or be recommended as legislation to the incoming legislature, which was supposedly elected by the people, for the people. Finally, it was decided to recommend certain measures, thus accounting for their time and expenditures."

Two contests must be decided at the next session of the legislature. Harry Foster will challenge the seating of John Adams, jr., in the Fifth district. William Worthing will try to upset Sam Klaver's lead of 31 votes in the Sixth. Two years ago, Worthing won from Klaver by a narrow margin. At the last election it was Klaver's turn.

Some of the new legislators will attract attention from the start. Frank Sorrell of Syracuse, who defeated Bob Armstrong by a decisive majority, is regarded as a champion of farm and livestock interests. M. E. Westley is another man who may surprise the legislators. J. Lyndon Thornton, of Fairbury is expected to prove an able member. Joe Reavis, John Mekota, Richard Johnson, J. B. Rossiter, Jay Hastings, Tom Lambert, and A. C. Van Diest are all men who are capable of excellent legislative work.

The tabulation of the official vote by the state canvassing board brought no serious errors to light. Election certificates were immediately mailed as soon as the board had held a perfunctory meeting Novmber 28.

The total vote was 505,471, which is 109,595 short of the 1936 total of 617,066, the top record for Nebraska. The three candidates for governor polled 496,943, as 10,528 persons failed to vote for a candidate for this office.

George Heinke defeated Henry Luckey by a plurality of 349 votes. I. W. Jacoby urges a contest when Congress convenes. Congressman Luckey has gone to California.

Cochran led Warner by 16,789 votes. Cochran got 218,787; Warner, 201,898; Bryan, 76,258. Warner carried fifty counties; Cochran, 43. Walter R. Johnson, republican candidate for attorney general, led all partisan candidates by scoring a total of 250,121. Duane Swanson, republican candidate for the railway commission, came next with 249,556. Charles W. Taylor, non-partisan candidate for state superintendent, got the high vote of 281,013.

In naming Harvey Johnson, brilliant Omaha attorney, to the Supreme bench to succeed Judge Day, Governor Cochran has added to the conservative sentiment of the high tribunal. The election of Robert Simmons as chief justice was a victory for the conservatives. Justice Paine is perhaps the only outstanding liberal.

Friends of Senator Burke and workers for Governor Cochran took a hand in the Supreme judge contest in the last days of the campaign. Both groups had 1940 in mind. By electing Mr. Simmons, they thought that he would be shelved for the senatorial race, when both Burke and Cochran will be contenders.
