LUTHERAN NOTES

R. W. Fricke, Pastor.

Our God has given but one youth to every child. During this time the foundation must be laid for this life and for the life to come. No amount of remorseful tears can recall for a man the golden opportunities of childhood.

There is no time when the divine seed of faith and love can be imbedded so deeply and firmly in the human heart as in the days of childhood. Religious truths learned in childhood are seldom, if ever, forgotten. Habits formed in one's early days are much stronger than those acquired when the hair is graying at the temples. The Bible tells us, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Neglect him, and the day may come when you, with bitter tears, will wish that you had another life to live and you could make good the neglects and mistakes of the past. Train your child right—bring him to church!
