MEEK AND VICINITY

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Vorrman, of Venus last Monday, February 13. Mrs. Vorrman is well known in this locality having taught school at Leonia several years ago. She was formerly Esther Fraka, of Inman, and has many friends in this locality.

The Fred Johring family have rented the Wrede ranch and will move there the first of March. They have lived on the John Crandall place for several years. They will be missed in this neighborhood but will not be much farther away. We wish them success in their new home.

Harry Fox and son Charlie trucked wood to town for George Bay the first of the week.

Arthur Rouse called at Frank Griffith's on Thursday.

Mrs. Guy Young and son, Lester, of Opportunity, were dinner guests at the Howard Rouse home on Tuesday.

Morris Graham and son, Russell called at the Howard Rouse home Friday afternoon.

Miss Maude Rouse and Cecil Griffith spent Monday evening of last week at the Frank Griffith home.

No coyote hunt was held last Sunday on account of the snow and wind, which blew a gale from the northwest.

Preston Jones and son, Milo spent Monday evening at the Dan Hansen home.

Arthur Rouse spent Monday afternoon at the Frank Griffith home.

Ronald Carson will move from the Billy Hull place to the Joe Hansen place the first of March, and Robert Hiscock's will move on the Billy Hull place.

Roy Karr, who has been quite ill was taken to the Lynch hospital on Sunday. It was reported that he was slightly better, the last report.

Several in this locality are having grippe at this writing. Changeable weather almost every day is no doubt the cause of many colds.

We understand that there will be preaching service with special singing at Paddock Union church on Thursday evening.

Frank Griffith called at Harry Fox's on Monday afternoon.

Public School Notes

A dancing class has been organized at the Public School. The Student Council supervises the project, with Warren Thompson doing a good job of instructing. The class meets from 4:00 p. m. until 5:00 p. m.

The first two classes have been spent in learning to walk in rhythm, proper carriage, poise, the proper way to hold your partner while dancing. There is much interest and the class is progressing rapidly.

The class and the Students appreciate Miss Henry's accompaniment.

Miss Wind took the Pep club to Page for the game there Friday.

EIGHTH GRADE

Yvonne Ernst came to school Monday attired in a "Believe It or Not," jacket, by Ripley.

The newspaper exhibit was held Tuesday of this week in Room 23.

Alta June Pruss received honorable mention for original drawings of doll dresses in the Omaha World-Herald. We are proud of her.

Miss Tomjcek seems to have gone royal, as she has been reading "King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table." for opening exercises.

SEVENTH GRADE NEWS

Harold Calkins from the Eighth Grade gave us a book report on "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." He answered many questions for us and his report was enjoyed by the class.

An excellent collection of spices has been made in our Geography class. We have discovered many new uses of them as well as some unusual spices that we were not familiar with before.

Miss Miller gave us an interesting talk on her visit to the Gettysburg Battlefield. She made it seem very real to us and left us with the wish that we might also see it some day.

SIXTH GRADE

After quite a siege of illness, the Sixth Grade now has perfect enrollment.

Mrs. J. U. Yantzi presented our room with a picture of both Washington and Lincoln.

The work on Australia has been completed and the study of Asia will be our next project.

FIFTH GRADE

In studying the Western States, Joan Burgess and Jackie Bussard really have a lot to tell us because they actually travelled there this past summer.

Models of corn grinders and spinning wheels used by the early pioneers were brought to school by Leon Uhl, Kenneth Stewart, William Haglan, Buddy Persons and Mary Lou Ernst.

FOURTH GRADE

Our reading class has been making a study of fire fighting, tracing its progress from the time of the man drawn engine to our present system of fire fighting. We have learned how to use a fire extinguisher and what we can do to make our homes safer. We plan to visit our local fire department to learn more about present-day fire engines and methods.

THIRD GRADE

We are enjoying our new reading books. The stories have been very interesting.

This week we are keeping a weather chart, recording temperature, direction of wind, and cloudiness, ice, or snow.

Our reading class has found stories about George Washington from library books and have read them for the class.

SECOND GRADE

Patricia Bruenbach was absent from school this week. Patricia visited her grandmother who lives in Lincoln.

We enjoyed our Valentine box Tuesday afternoon. Everyone received many pretty Valentines.

Ralph Lindberg treated the entire class to candy and peanuts. Thank you very much, Ralph.

Darlene Claussen and Wallace Shelhamer went to the first and third grades Friday afternoon and read a story from their readers to them. We believe that this will be an incentive for better reading, for those who study their reading and know their lessons will get to read in the different classes.

FIRST GRADE

We have met many new book friends in the library books which we have read this week. From our Book Chart we can learn which books we have read, and whether or not we enjoyed them.

It is such fun to read our newspaper, My Weekly Reader. We have read of new homes, new towns, trains and boats.

of the State Teachers association; Esther Montgomery, Lincoln, teacher; and W. A. Robbins, member of the Lincoln school board. Arguments favoring the bill were that money would be put in circulation, teachers would not be forced to go on old age assistance rolls, and that the morale of teachers would be improved. The bill provides that teachers would be automatically retired at the age of 65, and would receive average annual pensions of $400 in the larger cities and $300 elsewhere, the payments to be made by a five per cent levy on the salary of each teacher the state to match this amount.

In a brief filed in the Supreme Court for a rehearing motion in the case of Walter H. Jurgensen, former lieutenant governor, convicted of embezzlement, his attorneys declared that the recent affirmation of Jurgensen's conviction is "a violation of the constitutional rights of the defendant." The claim is made that the defendant did not have even "the semblance of a fair trial in the district court because the presiding judge and the prosecuting attorney were both candidates for public office and busily engaged in their respective campaigns."

An unusual problem will come before the state pardon board at its meeting March 8th. Paul Harris, 23, of York, who on January 14, 1938, was sentenced to serve from one and one-half to four years in the reformatory for forging the name of his father on a check, has asked the board for clemency. He explains that when he was a boy of 14 he was severely injured by a blast of dynamite, a log crushing the side of his head. A recent operation on his skull has relieved pressure on his brain, and he claims that he is sure that he would not have committed forgery if he had been able to think clearly. He says that it seems to him that his debt to society for forgery was paid by the operation. His application is one of 24 that will be made at the March hearing.

That some saving might be effected by the consolidation of ten examining boards directly under the state health director was admitted by Dr. P. H. Bartholomew in a hearing before the legislative appropriations committee in regard to possible ways of retrenchment. consideration was also given to legislative bills now pending in which several boards are making an effort to separate themselves from the health department.

Edith Abbot of the class of 1901, University of Nebraska, now dean of the School of Social Science of the University of Chicago, was Charter Day speaker at the celebration of the seventieth birthday of the university last Wednesday. Her topic was "Frontiers of Social Welfare," and she named medical care for the poor as part of a public health program as one of the most important of these frontiers. She strongly urged that the appointive administrative services for public welfare be taken out of politics and placed on a civil service basis. An audience of about 1,300 heard Dean Abbott, who was introduced by Chancellor C. S. Boucher. A musical program by the University Symphony orchestra opened the Charter Day program, which closed Wednesday evening with the annual Charter Day banquet, held in the Student Union building.

The Nebraska Supreme Court held last week that Hannah Edwards had a legislative claim for $11,800 against the estate of her father, Christian M. Skade, of Cozad, who died two years ago. This decision overrules the decision of the district court of Dawson County, which upheld claims made by Hannah Edwards' two sisters, Elsa M. Rickey and Anna D. York. It was shown that Hannah had an oral agreement with her father for pay for her service as housekeeper for more than 33 years.

No votes were given to the income tax bill sponsored by Charles R. Herrick, and it died in a meeting of the legislative revenue and taxation committee last week. Herrick, in his talk before the committee, declared that the farming industry of the state was being destroyed by the burden of property taxes, and that the load of the farmer ought to be lightened by the payment of more taxes by the man who lives in town, drawing a salary or running a business. This idea was vigorously opposed by salaried men and business men who declared that the plight of the farmer was no worse than their own. Representatives of organized labor also argued against the bill.

away with compulsory statewide automobile testing has been reported out to the general file by the legislative revenue committee, and it seems likely that this measure will take the place of the 1937 law. The proposed substitute would still give municipalities the privilege of setting up local car-testing ordinances, and brake and light requirements would be specified in detail. State highway patrolmen could stop drivers at any time and take them to the nearest garage or testing station to make sure that their automobiles conformed to these specifications. No change has been made in the driver's license fees of $1 for new permits and 75 cents for renewals.

Thirty-two tornadoes were reported in Kansas for the year 1938. The biggest one came on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.
