Lay Mash $1.02

Good Chix, good feed, and an interested flock owner always win out.

On Apr. 8, 1938 Cyril Peter purchased O'Neill Hatchery chicks, mostly White Rocks.

They were well fed from the start, and culled in December. Today 300 hens are laying about 245 eggs daily average or 8-270. Can you beat it on a large flock?

Here's the way he feeds 'em: 600 lbs. gr. yellow corn, 200 lbs. gr. rye, 200 lbs. gr. oats, 100 lbs. Shamrock concentrates. They eat 10 gallons of this mixture, a gallon or two of whole grain and 10 gallons of water. This lay mash costs about $1.02 per hundred.
