Storz New Beer Fast Gaining Popularity

The popularity of Storz draught beer in half gallon picnic bottles has led to another development, the packing of Storz Pasteurized beer in these big bottles. Whereas the draught beer has to be kept cold from the time it is purchased until it is used, the pasteurized beer can be kept any place until near the time it is to be used and then cooled to the proper temperature. Also, pasteurized beer will not spoil if it gets warm again after once having been cooled but can be re-cooled when necessary. This is not advisable with draught beer.

The Pasteurized Storz Beer in half gallon picnic bottles is also a convenience for dealers who did not have sufficient refrigerator capacity to keep enough of the half gallon draught beer bottles on hand to supply their customers. Also many picnic parties could not cool more than two or three half gallon bottles at a time. Now they can keep a reserve supply of Storz half gallon Pasteurized bottles and cool them as needed.

In order to make sure that everybody who likes beer can get their choice of styles in Pasteurized Storz bottle Triumph, Pilsner Club and All Grain in half gallon picnic jugs. Likewise, Storz Fine Lager Beer is provided in cans, which easier to pack, there is no breakage, there are no bottles to carry back, and beer in cans cools quicker.

"We believe in giving our customers what they want," says Mr. Storz, "and we are in a position to do it. We are located right here in Omaha, where we can get the finest mid-west grains, utilize local labor, and make quick inexpensive delivery of Storz Beer throughout this whole territory. And the way people are taking to Storz Pasteurized Beer for picnics and outings shows that they appreciate our efforts—and naturally, we appreciate their satisfied patronage."
