

As Amazed Britishers Viewed Runaway Launching Harvard Expedition to Retrace Columbus' Route

H. M. S. Formidable, new British aircraft carrier, rides serenely off the Belfast, Ireland, ways after launching herself a half-hour ahead of time. The 23,000-ton craft started sliding down the ways as workmen were knocking out the props preparatory to the launching. As it picked up speed, careening wildly into the water, it hurled timbers in all directions, killing one woman and injuring 20 other people. Lady Kingsley Wood, sponsor of the boat, managed to hurl the traditional bottle of champagne at the retreating craft. The new craft is considered one of the most modern of its kind in the world.

The crew of the barkentine Captana, in which the Harvard expedition is retracing the historic voyage of discovery made by Christopher Columbus in 1492, is shown aboard the little craft in Oyster Bay, Long Island. Third from right in rear: Capt. Jarillo Walter, sailing master, is in charge of the ship. Right: A view of the Captana as it lay in the placid waters of Long Island sound.
