Frontier, October 23, 1884 Tenement houses in O'Neill would pay well now.

Work on the skating rink commenced Monday last, and the carpenters promise to have the floor laid ready for skating three weeks from said time.

Considerable excitement prevailed in town Saturday afternoon over a prairie fire, which was raging with considerable fury just west of town. With the wind blowing strongly from the south there was little danger to the town, but had the wind been from the west it might have proved destructive. The fire was supposed to have started from the sparks of an engine on the F. E. & M. V.
