Nebraska's traveling trailer laboratory manned by Charles Bracken and Pat Brown, was working in Omaha last week, after having tested gasoline at stations in Lincoln, Central City, Columbus, Fremont, Grand Island, Kearney and York during the three weeks since it was put into operation. J. A. Ainley, chief of the motor fuel division, has reported that very few sub-standard gasolines have been found.

Under the revised Supreme court rules, which provide that graduates of accredited law schools as well as non-graduates must pass state bar examinations, the semi-annual three-day examinations were in progress at the state capitol last week. Twenty-six applicants for admission to the bar took the examinations.
