(Crowded Out, Last Week)

The Emmet Ladies Aid Society held a Colonial Tea at the home of Mrs. Guy Cole on Wednesday afternoon. It was very well attended and everyone who had or could borrow old finery donned it for the occasion. The committee in charge entertained the gathering and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Geo. Lewis, Mrs. Seralda Johnson, Mrs. John Conard and Mrs. Bert Gaffney. There were a number of beautiful old gowns worn, outstanding among them was a wedding dress fifty-eight years old, worn by Mrs. Bob Martin of Atkinson. It was fashioned of a creamy tan material with draped skirt and a shirred band set in near the hemline. It had a bosque bodice with a lovely lace fichu. Mrs. Martin's hairdo was in old style too. Mrs. Bob Mains wore a beautiful dress her mother wore about fifty-seven years ago. This was made of light gray taffeta with shirred bodice and wide gored skirt that was frilly lined and was trimmed with a double ruffle of the material at the hem. High black shoes completed her costume. Mrs. Alfred Martin also wore a lovely old dress of heavy black silk with black lace trimming and a jacket of the same material that hooked up the back to a high neckline. Mrs. Leon Beckwith was the only one present who wore hoops which she had a little difficulty navigating. Mrs. Bert Gaffney wore a dress and shawl she had borrowed from Mrs. Crimmins of Atkinson. The dress was a full skirted print with lace at the neck. She also carried a cane which came from Ireland fifty some years ago and had belonged to Mr. Gaffney's father. Grandma Cole, who is almost 87 stopped in for a short time wearing a black velvet bonnet trimmed in ostrich tips that had belonged to her mother. Mrs. Sewell Johnson wore a lovely small hat that to us would look just as smart today as it must have looked forty or fifty years ago. The afternoon was closed by a lunch of sandwiches, cake, coffee and pickles.
