On January 27th a baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Marsh and apparently she was recovering nicely. Mrs. Marsh, the former Wilma Grace Brown, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brown, was a resident of Inman for several years. She was born at York, Nebraska, on March 26, 1911, and at the time of her death her age was 28 years, 11 months and 9 days.

Wilma finished high school in Ewing, Nebr., and attended business college in Mitchell, So. Dak., for one year, after which she came with her parents and sisters to Inman, where she made her home for a number of years.

When a small girl she was converted and joined the Presbyterian church, but later transferred her membership to the M. E. Church at Inman. Wilma was a devout Christian and much of her time was spent in active Christian service. About four years ago, while at a camp meeting near Bassett she experienced entire sanctification and her life proved her experience.

On April 2nd, 1939, she was united in marriage to Paul Marsh of Thomas, Oklahoma, the ceremony being performed at David City, Nebr. THE NEBRASKA SCENE

(By The Lowell Service)

Lincoln—The mortality ratio of members seeking re-election to the next unicameral is expected to be exceptionally high.

Evidently sensing the trend of public sentiment, several of the solons are announcing that they will seek other posts. Some will not try for re-election.

The special session was fraught with menace. Senators Gallan, Diers, Von Seggern, Dunn, and many others created hostile sentiment on the relief question. The public demanded remedial action on the board of control problem, renovation of Neil Vandemoer's state assistance setup, at least a peeping-Tom gesture at the auditor, the insurance commissioner, and the banking department. There was a popular feeling that Louis Buchholz and his department of agriculture should not be ignored.

When Chairman Eubank of the board of control and Director Vandemoer of the state assistance department were before the legislature for questioning, the republican members took little interest. Privately, the senators declared that any embarrassing questions would be criticized as a display of partisanship in advance of the election.

No sooner had the legislation been enacted for the old people, than the Vandemoer salary boost took place. Now the old age pension clubs claim the republican senators let them down.

Next came the announcement that a seven-member "merit system council to act in a supervisory capacity" would be appointed. Credit for this departure was given the federal government. No one knows just how many employees are regimented in the state assistance department or scattered throughout the state.

After the merit system council has been set up, Vandemoer announced that "we will choose an administrator to superintend operation of the plan."

A study of each county is to be made in order to classify the various types of employment. "We will work closely with the county commissioners' association," said Vandemoer, "so that everybody will understand the system. It will probably take two or three months to develop."

In answer to criticism directed against the alleged "purge of liberals," at the University of Nebraska, Dr. J. O. Hertzler of the department of sociology announced that Dr. Earl H. Bell would return to the state university next fall. This caused another commotion among the students. Dr. Bell asked for a leave of absence as a result of an effort of conservatives to curtail the size of his classes. His request was immediately granted, and John L. Champe, formerly connectd with a Lincoln assurance concern, was named to succeed Bell.

Governor Cochran announced that no appointment would be made of fill the place made vacant by the death of Regent A. C. Stokes of Omaha. Two candidates will be selected at the primary in the Second district to contest for the vacancy. Regents are elected on the non partisan ballot. Regent C. Y. Thompson of West Point and Regent M. A. Shaw of David City are candidates for re-election.

Streamlining the management of the hydros and rural public power districts is expected to result from the conferences held by the Nebraska Hydro representatives and the federal authorities in Washington. Much mystery and secrecy surrounded the deliberations. It is admitted that Senator Norris made definite suggestions after his tour of the state following the Carmody blow-off at the Hastings meeting of the Nebraska Conservation congress. Unified action in sales promotion, better business methods, and an entire vacation from politics and campaigns to build up utility empires are part of the future program.

The plan to deruralize the drought-stricken sections of the Midwest and encourage migration to Grand Coulee and similar projects did much to secure the co-operation of the private utilities. In all the drought pestered regions it is expected that the private companies will unite with the public power districts to bring about irrigation, soil conservation, flood control, and the storage of wasted waters.

Clerk Hugo Srb stated that the unicameral legislature had set a new mark for economy at the last 11-day special session. The cost of the special session which closed January 13, was $3,054.83, exclusive of journal and session laws printing cost. On the same basis, an 11-day session of the bicameral back in 1931 cost $26,746. Cost items figured in the 1939 special session total: salaries of officers and employees $1,547.58; mileage for members, $539.25; postage, $450; office supplies, $177.59; telephone, $44.10; typewriter rentals, $30.50; journals, $130.59; printing bills, $103.70; session laws, $31.52.

STORZ AWARDED PLAQUE FOR 1939 ADVERTISING

In recognition of its "Outstanding Use of Constructive Newspaper Advertising in 1939," the Storz Brewing Co., Omaha, has been awarded a special plaque by the Nebraska Press Association.

According to E. M. Von Seggern, publisher of the West Point Republican and president of the Nebraska Press Association, the award was made to Storz for its judicious and successful use of Nebraska's most powerful advertising media, the combined papers of the Association. Through its advertising in Nebraska's daily and weekly papers, which are so influential in promoting Nebraska industry and business, Storz has boosted Nebraska industry in general, as well as creating a home market for Storz beers.

The plaque was presented to Adolph Storz, president of the brewery, by Mr. Von Seggern and F. J. Minder, secretary of the Press Association, in a simple ceremony at the brewery offices Wednesday afternoon, January 31.

Arthur and Robert Storz, vice-presidents of the brewery, and C. C. Buchanan, Buchanan-Thomas Advertising Co., agency for Storz, were present for the award.
