Fractional Decrease Is Proposed: Valuations

Up 21/4 Million

A slight mill levy decrease for Holt county taxpayes appears likely as county officials ning the county have mounted considerably, most of the increase will be absorbed by higher valuations and substantial reserves in the principal accounts.

A hearing on the proposed new budget will be held on Wednesday, July 28, at 2 p.m. in the courthouse here. Any objections, suggestions or cor-rections will be heard at that

Because Holt county tax val-uations are up 21/4 million dollars over 1947, considerably more revenue will be derived last year to 104 thousand dollars during the new fiscal year. (For other comparisons turn to official table on page 9.)

Most of the general fund increases are related to costs of supplies.

There was no levy a year go for county unemployment relief but an .18-mill levy has been considered necessary for the new year.

According to the semi-annual statement of the Holt county treasurer (also being published officially on page 9) the Holt county coffers show-ed a balance of 521 thousand dollars as of June 30, 1948. A year ago the balance was 495 thousand dollars.

There were about 14 thousand dollars in unallowed claims

Outstanding bonds and coupons include over 15 thousand dollars on the court house. These are optional and cannot be retired until after December
