

CHURCHES

WESLEYAN METHODIST (O'Neill)

Rev. Melvin Grosenbach, pastor.

Recently a four-fifths majority of the laymen of the church voted to change their affiliation from the Hephzibah Faith Missionary association, of Tabor, Ia., to the Wesleyan Methodist church of America. This church (one block east of the water tower) will be known as the Wesleyan Methodist church of O'Neill.

Thanks to these people for a unanimous recall to their pastor for another year. We are hoping this will be the best year of our ministry in O'Neill.

Sunday, September 5: Sunday-school, 10 a. m.; preaching, 11 a. m. Evening service, 7:30.

Prayer meeting each Friday night at 8 o'clock. You are welcome to our services.

The prayer conference of the Elkhorn Valley Holiness association will meet Saturday in the Wesleyan Methodist church at Atkinson. The annual election of officers will be in the business session right after the noon hour.

CENTER UNION (O'Neill)

Rev. Melvin Grosenbach, pastor.

Rev. Earl Dix, returned missionary from Africa, was with us for morning and afternoon services Sunday, August 29. The afternoon service was a baptismal service at the Elkhorn river on the Clarence Ernst farm. Eleven were baptized from this church and 2 from other churches.

Sunday, Sept. 5: Preaching, 10 a. m.; Sunday-school, 11 a. m. Evening service at 8 o'clock.

Prayer meeting each Wednesday night.

Thanks to these people for a unanimous recall for us to be their pastor for the coming year. We are trusting the Lord to make it the best year of our life and that we will be of help in many ways to this community.

We welcome you to our services.

Exercising Caution in Use of 'War Paint' Will Not Displease Boy Friend's Mother

By MARY DEVINE BRENNAN

Hiah! A few weeks ago this column gave some dating hints and helps for the boys about town. Since then a few of the boys have suggested that the girls be enlightened, too, so here, glamorous ones, are your dozen dating don'ts.

Mary Devine Brennan

1. First of all, when the man of the hour does get around to asking you for a date, don't leave him in suspense. Give him a definite "yes" or "no." Someone better may come along, but the chances are he won't, and you know, a date with a boy is better than 2 with a dream.

2. If there is anything worse than a date-breaking Romeo, it's a date-breaking Juliet, so if you've made plans stick to them. If it happens, and it sometimes does, that you have made a mistake and have 2 dates for the same evening, explain the situation frankly, go out with the boy who asked you first, and hope for the best with the one who asked you later.

3. Don't try to dress like a movie queen. Boys are easily embarrassed so avoid fashion extremes. You don't want to resemble the jewelry counter at the dime store, either, so limit the number of bangles and spangles you wear.

4. Unless you want to make an enemy of the boy friend's mother, use caution when applying the "war paint." If you've ever tried to get lipstick out of a good white shirt you'll know what I mean.

5. Don't keep your date waiting when he comes. He asked you for the date, not your family, and he doesn't want to spend the evening with them.

6. Don't pout if his plans don't agree with yours. Maybe you'd rather dance the night away in a jive palace, but if he wants to rollerskate, be a sport, put on the rollers and have fun his way.

7. If you happen to be doubling with your best friend, don't mystify the boys with your secret code conversations. They won't be intrigued, but they will be bored and will probably go off by themselves to discuss the latest baseball scores.

8. Don't be catty. Leave others out of your conversations unless you can think of something nice to say. The helpless kitten type may appeal to your high school hero, but the cat with claws is another matter.

9. Don't talk about your other dates. Your date for the evening isn't interested in the "movie you saw with Bill last week" or "the fun you had with Johnny when..." Your date may decide that you prefer Bill and Johnny and leave you to them in the future.

10. Don't spend his money too freely. Ready cash is a rare commodity with the high school casanova, so be considerate. If you only want a coke, don't order a hamburger. And remember that on most of your dates, treats such as steak dinners are just to be dreamed about. Leave a little money for his next date and you will probably be it. Then there's the subject of cars. Not all families have 2 in every garage, and, since parents sometimes like to go riding, too, there may be an evening now and then when Prince Charming arrives for your date without the legendary white charger, a '48 Ford, or even a bicycle-built-for-two. When this happens, don't sulk. Walking won't hurt you and you may find it fun for a change.

11. Don't pout when he suggests going home. If he promised your parents that he'd get you home early, don't make it hard for him. Even if your parents didn't set a deadline, his probably did, so be a good girl, and leave the party when you must, Cinderella. There'll be more fun tomorrow.

12. Don't leave the dating all to the boy friend. Have a little initiative yourself. Invite the man of your life and a few friends over to your house for an evening of dancing, popcorn and cokes. It's one of the best ways a girl has of saying "Thanks, I had a wonderful time."

Over 100 teenagers gathered for the square dance at the Legion club Friday night and the number of out-of-town teenagers set a new record.

Lolajean Ickes, Barbara Trowbridge, Lee Bartos and Naomi Steinberg were here from Page; Shirley Psolta represented Pilger; there were 3 teenagers from Arapahoe, B. Bruegman, Dan Carter and Chuck Groves; Hugo Sielser and Francis Houhe were down from Butte; and Don L. Mott and Don Schommer were here from Spencer. Others included Dick Hutton, of Inman; Miriam Hoffman, of Chambers; Tubby Reinhardt, of Omaha; and Ed Scott and Pat Miller, both of Atkinson.

A large audience of grown-ups gathered to watch the square-dancing and more than one was heard to say, "Wish I were a teenager again." Aren't we the lucky ones? Altogether it was a great week for dancing—polkas by the WNAJ Bohemian band last Thursday night; square-dancing Friday, and the music of Kay Mills at Danceland on Sunday.

The Munny band members had an especially wonderful time at the Cherry county fair in Valentine and they're headed for Chambers tomorrow. Speaking of the band, those of you who want to join in on the fun should talk it over with Mr. George. The band is looking for new members and you're looking for a little excitement, so why don't you give music a try?

You'll find that as a member of the band you'll get more out of school, you'll make new friends, you'll have more fun, and you'll even learn a little about the ancient art of tune-playing.

When the band goes to Chambers tomorrow just remind yourself of all the marvelous times you're missing.

There won't be a teenage dance tomorrow because the band members won't be here, but you queeny ones had better start fixing up the glamorous gowns, because there will be a big formal dance next Friday to usher in the new school year.

See you there!

Large Crowd Hears Concert at Atkinson

ATKINSON — The large crowd attending the Atkinson Men's concert at the Miller theater Monday evening received a rare treat.

The program was varied and interesting, consisting of popular, sacred, negro spiritual, and the ever-popular barber shop quartet and novelty numbers.

Soloists were Donald Davis and George Mentzer. The conductor was Rev. Orin Graff, and the pianist was Harold Shane.

Other choir members, consisting of professional men, business men, students, clerks, and others, were: Warren Kelly, Glen Lawrence, Wayne Hickok, Roy Dickerson, Harry Snyder, Lawrence Kramer, Robert Horner, Glen Otto, George Embody, Dean Funk, Harold Grof, Gilbert Schriener, Henry Warren and Leo Monahan.

Weekends Here — Lorenz Bredemeier, of Valentine, spent the weekend visiting his family here.
