BIG BRASS SHINES IN KOREA . . . General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander of the Allied forces in the Pacific, is shown reviewing Korean sailors as he arrived at Seoul's Kimpo airport for the proclamation of the American-sponsored republic of Korea. Three years ago Korea was liberated from 45 years of Japanese rule. With Mac-

Arthur is Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, U. S. military commander in Korea, who since has returned to the United States. The trip to Korea marked the second time MacArthur has left Japan since the beginning of the occupation. The other instance was a flight to Manila to attend the birth of the Philippine republic.

Classroom Capers May Be Omitted If You Wish to Avoid Title of 'Pet-Pest'
By MARY DEVINE BRENNAN

Hiah! You've heard a lot about manners before, I know, but this week we're going to take them up just once more. We all know very well about the glamour manner for dates and about polite-ness with the family, but sometimes we forget that at school our manners are showing, too.

You may not want to be known as the "teacher's pet," but being the teacher's pet-pest isn't pleasant, either, so maybe you'd better quit a few of the usual classroom capers.

Peashooters, spitballs, and ruler-snapping are for juveniles. Leave them to the grade school kids.

Try eliminating a little of the classroom chatter, too. You've heard often enough at home that you're supposed to be quiet when someone else is talking, so when the teacher is explaining the mysteries of a chemical formula or the method for finding the square root of 77, don't be making after-school-plans with the boy in the next row.

Note-passing is out for a similar reason. It's distracting to you, to the people around you, and, most of all, to the teacher.

The designs in the geometry book may not interest you as much as the diamond on the baseball field, but tear your eyes away from the window, look at the teacher, and listen to what she has to say.

When you answer in class, remember no "huh-uh's", no "yah's." Saying "yes, sir," "yes, ma'am," or "Yes, Sister" may sound queer to you at first, but it doesn't to others and you'll get used to it in time.

There are times when the teacher has to correct you in class. She does it for your own good—not because she thinks it is fun or because it amuses her. So be grateful for the help she gives. Say "Thank you" when given a correction (but watch the tone of voice.)

Don't hesitate to erase the blackboard to save the teacher the trouble, to pick up a pencil if she should happen to drop one, or to offer to carry her books. Always stand when a teacher enters or leaves the classroom.

All this is politeness, not apple-polishing, and you'll find that even the most cold-hearted of teachers will melt upon the application of a little classroom charm. If your teacher is already perfection itself, show her that you appreciate it. Teaching is not an easy job but a little kindness and consideration from you can make it a lot more pleasant.

The Legion club was all aglow Friday night for the unforgettable formal dance. Everyone was all glamour up for the occasion from Mariyn Mangal in her colonial fashioned formal to Donnie Borg with his sensational tie.

Pat Hickey and Darleene Steele, Don Borg and Mary Jo Hynes, Bob Erwin and Barbara Hancock, and Jim Donohoe and Dorothy Clark were just a few of the sparkling twosomes.

It was a wonderful ending for the first week of school.

Now that all of you are back at work in the hallowed halls of OHS and SMA, I have to be getting off to school myself, but the columns will keep coming, so keep reading.

See you at Christmas time!

Ewing Teen-Agers in First Picnic

EWING—The American Legion and the women's auxiliary sponsored its first party for teen-agers in the area on Friday evening, September 10. Over 50 young people participated in an evening of folk dancing, ballroom dancing and table games. Refreshments were served by the chaperons, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Napier, Mrs. Wilbur Spangler, Mrs. Stanley Rickert and Ves. Bahr.

The party was held in the new club room for Sanders post.

Letters to the Editor

(Editor's note: The following letter was written by Kenneth McClure, a companion of the 19-year-old Ohio youth who was fatally injured while diving in the Elkhorn river near here on Sunday, August 29. The youth, Herbert Longfellow, died enroute by air ambulance from O'Neill to Vandalia, O. He suffered a spinal column injury and hospital attendants here never held hope for his recovery.)

Greenville, Ohio, September 8, 1948.

Dear Editor:

I received your papers and the picture. I guess you haven't heard all the news. Herb (Herbert Longfellow) died in St. Louis at a hospital there. The airplane was routed through St. Louis because of bad weather. They were down in St. Louis to refuel when Herb's dad, Alva Longfellow, and brother-in-law, John De-weese, who were flying with him, noticed he was getting worse. They summoned the nurse and they got a doctor and ambulance and I guess they were at a hospital in St. Louis in record time. Herb died there.

After all the people concerned went through a coroner's inquest and they had embalmed the body, they flew on to Vandalia, O. airport. The Miller funeral home from Greenville met the plane in Vandalia and took the body to Greenville.

Herb surely had plenty of friends. The funeral was the largest I have ever seen. Really a lot of people went to the funeral home, too.

The rest of us came home in the automobile, Wayne Arnold, my father, Harry McClure, Herb's sister, Marleene (Mrs. Julius Deeweese), Herb's cousin, Mrs. Mable Grimm, and myself. We arrived here about 4:30 a. m. Friday.

The funeral was at 2:30 Saturday.

I would surely like to thank everyone again for what they did for us while we were in O'Neill. Dr. French, everyone at the hospital, Fred Heerman of the Elkhorn cabins, the people at the telephone office, and just everyone in O'Neill. I can't express my gratitude because everyone really went out of their way to help. I surely think O'Neill is a swell little town.

I did say I never wanted to go back to O'Neill, but now I would like to go back to thank everyone. Also I would like to thank the fellows from Page that helped me find a doctor. I would like to thank your paper, too, for returning the picture and for the copies of the paper.

Thanks again for Herb was one of the best friends I ever had.

Sincerely,
Kenneth McClure,
Greenville, O.

Miss Van Sant, Mrs. Florence Butler and Mrs. Norwood, of Ewing, and Mrs. Norwood's sister, Mrs. Lee, of California, were Saturday visitors at the home of Mrs. E. J. Eby.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dexter and family visited Anna, Herman and William Shippman at their home near Chambers Sunday.
