Mail Is Exchanged Near Bridge Washout

CHAMBERS — Mail to and from O'Neill and Chambers was exchanged "by hand" at the South Fork river bridge south of O'Neill Monday, March 7. Approaches to the bridge were washed out the day before. Repairs were made Monday so that pedestrians could cross the bridge but not vehicles.

Consequently Carrier Fred Lowery was met at the bridge by Postmaster Margaret Cooper, of Chambers, and sacks of mail were exchanged.

By Tuesday morning, March 8, however, the bridge over Dry Creek, closer to O'Neill, was also washed out and was not repaired until late in the day, hence there was no mail service here Tuesday.

Drink Tests Jump Legislative Hurdle

Legalized chemical tests for the drinking driver have jumped the first hurdle in the Nebraska legislature on its way for complete passage into law.

The bill, which was debated on the floor of the senate on three occasions, has been amended to include lower penalties, certification of the testers by the department of health, and a clause to disallow a presumption of guilt to be made against anyone who refused to take the tests.

The bill, introduced by Sens. R. W. Hill, of Hebron, and Dwight Burney, of Hartington, was sponsored by the Nebraska state safety council.

It sets up the test results which will be considered not under the influence, on the borderline, and under the influence. The certification of testers amendment was introduced by Sen. Louis Holmes, of Grand Island, and the protective amendment by Sen. John Adams, of Omaha.

The lower penalties, introduced by Sen. Willard Wilson, of Holdrege, reduce the monetary fine, the minimum license suspension and the minimum jail sentence for the first offense. Under the second offense the monetary fine is lessened, however, other provisions remain as before. The third offense remains as it appears now on the statutes.

Proponents of the lower penalties expressed belief that the important thing was that a conviction is obtained rather than the amount of money fined. The board of directors of the state safety council opposed the lowering of the penalties, however, the amendment was passed on the floor of the senate during the bill's debate.

Under provisions of the proposed law, tests of a suspect's bodily fluids or breath may be examined by a certified examiner for presence and amount of alcohol. The results of these tests will be admissible evidence in the courts of Nebraska. If the suspect is found to have .15 percent by weight of alcohol in his blood, he will be presumed under the influence of alcohol. If he has less than this to .05 percent, he will be placed on the borderline and other evidence may prove his innocence or guilt. Any test of .05 percent or under will be presumed not under the influence.

This law does not make it mandatory for a person to take a test, instead he is protected by Adam's amendment.

Plans call for the equipment of the state safety patrol with portable tests which can be carried in their cars. This will enable on-the-spot checks to be made when the driver is stopped or involved in an accident.

Bonnie McDonald New Air Personality

Bonnie McDonald, a new radio personality, is being heard every afternoon — Monday through Friday — at 1:15 over radio station WJAG at Norfolk.

Bonnie's program sponsored by the J. M. McDonald company, formerly Brown-McDonald's, will appeal to the ladies as Bonnie tells about hobbies, women in the news, decorating the home, and tips on making housekeeping and homemaking a little easier, as well as on making that budget stretch.

Bonnie started learning the business of homemaking early, since she came from a large family, and her mother felt, rightly, that the children were "never too young to learn." Of course, budget stretching is always a problem in a large family, so she also developed an intense interest in designing clothes, home decorating, and planning inexpensive entertainment for groups.

Bonnie frankly admits that she likes to talk, and this, combined with a lively curiosity has led her into a number of interesting hobbies. Of course, her main interest is her husband and her little daughter, Gwen, both of whom are heart and soul with her in her little trips into these fascinating sidelights of this business of living.

Manager Joe Stutz says that the McDonald store here is helping to sponsor Bonnie McDonald's broadcasts.

IS YOUR FUEL Dependable! Gas Is Nearly Unfailing !!

DEPENDABILITY . . .

Mrs. America likes to know that she can depend on her cooking appliance at any hour, day, or night. She does not like to be at the mercy of lightning, hurricanes, snow, sleet. She wants to be sure that when she puts a cake or a roast in the oven, the burner will keep right on delivering controlled heat for minutes and hours and hours. She wants to be sure of her cooking fuel so she chooses gas, the unfailing.

Orchard Man, 86, Says More Snow This Winter Than Ever

ORCHARD — Alex Cooper, who lived for many years at Norfolk but who has lived on a farm three miles south and one-half mile west of Orchard for many years, observed his 86th birthday anniversary Saturday, March 5. Mr. Cooper is in "excellent" health for a man of his age. He has been "snowed-in" since the first blizzard of November 18, however, and the only way to get in or out of his place at present is on foot.

Mr. Cooper came to this country from Scotland. While living at Norfolk he was a fireman for the North Western railway on the Norfolk to Long Pine run.

He was married to Miss Emma Peters at Norfolk 52 years ago. Mr. Cooper lived at Orchard for a time and then moved to a farm where he now lives. Mrs. Cooper died six years ago. He has two sons, James, of Ewing, and Peter, of Orchard, and a daughter in Idaho.

Many friends called on Mr. Cooper on his anniversary to wish him a "happy birthday."

Mr. Cooper says there has been more snow this past Winter than any other Winter within his memory.
