

OHS GRADUATES 28 SENIORS

High school graduates going into the working world must defend the American form of government by using the education they have received in high school. So said Dr. George W. Rosenlof, of the University of Nebraska, at the commencement address for the O'Neill high school seniors held in the high school auditorium here Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Rosenlof primarily stressed defense by the graduates of the public school systems, of freedom of worship, of our types of homes, all for a better and more unified democracy. Secondly, Dr. Rosenlof hit on the need for higher education if it were at all possible. He pointed out that 50 years ago an eighth grade education was sufficient; 15 years ago a high school education was adequate, but today, because of the need for specialists in all fields, it is necessary to have a college education.

Lloyd Sexton, principal of the school, presented scholarships to the following: Helen Bowden, regents scholarship University of Nebraska; Marie Fox, Nebraska State Teachers' college; Evelyn Brady, alternate regents scholarship and University of Nebraska school of music; Leona Serck, Norfolk Junior college, Norfolk; Dwayne Borg, Nebraska church colleges. Leona Serck also received a medal for placing eighth in an 80-minute shorthand test in the National commercial contest sponsored by the Modesto, Calif., Junior college. 190 schools in 40 states entered competition.

Eighth graders also received their diplomas at the joint commencement.

Awards were also presented to the "Fair and Square" club. This club includes students from the third to eighth grades. Each year they elect a member of their class as a "good citizen." The awards were presented to Leland Snyder, third grade; Carol Fredrickson fourth grade; Dean Clyde, fifth grade; Carolyn Moseman, sixth grade; Warren Sesser, seventh grade; Margaret Alm, eighth grade; and Tommy Bean, special room.

BRING PUMP INTO USE ON SEWER

The city has found a temporary solution to its sewer problem.

A pump is being leased to force sewerage from the lower end of the municipal sewer system into the Elkhorn river.

In recent weeks the mouth of the sewer has been partially clogged and sewerage has backed up into the system, overflowing from several manholes and spreading out over a portion of Carney park and other acreages in South O'Neill.

Most of the trouble, city officials say, is attributed to the inadequacy of the system. The installation dates from 1913.

Donald Price, of Lincoln, city engineer, made arrangements for the pump which is being set up on a lease basis. The city will have an option to buy the pump and turn rental payments into its purchase price.

Some city officials feel that the measure is strictly temporary and ultimately a disposal system will have to be installed. Law prohibits creation of new sewerage outlets into Nebraska streams.

Replacement Cattle Values Edge Higher on Atkinson Market

Under urgent demand and light receipts, choice steers sell from $29 to $31.50 a hundredweight at Tuesday's auction; butcher hogs reached $20.

The largest attendance in over a month plus small receipts and an advancing fat cattle market gave stocker and feeder cattle prices a boost at last Tuesday's auction in Atkinson. Muddy roads held receipts to a few over 300 head—the lightest since last Summer.

Although the entire list sold higher than a week ago, the advance was most pronounced on lightweight stockers and feeding cows which looked another dollar up on top of last week's sharp advance and now places these two classes within striking distance of all time highs of early last Fall. Lightweight steers from $28 to $31.50 a hundredweight comparable heifers at $24 to $26 a hundred, heavier weight steers from $22.50 to $25 a hundred and feeding heifers from $21 to $23 a hundred. Feeding cows from $17.50 to $20 a hundred and butcher bulls from $19 to $20.70 a hundred.

Butcher hogs sold up to $20 a hundred with heavier weights going between $19 and $19.75 a hundred. Sows cleared at $18 to $17.50 a hundred. Weanling and feeder pigs were in excellent demand.

Next auction: Tuesday, May 31.

Markets Stronger Than Week Before

Two hundred and five head of cattle and 452 head of hogs sold last Thursday, May 19, at the Fredrickson Livestock market here. The market was fully steady to stronger.

Good steer calves brought $25 to $27.50. Good heifer calves ranged from $22.50 to $25. The heavy yearling steer, 600 pounds and up, $22 to $24.25; heavy yearling heifers, $20 to $23.50; wet heifers sold up to $21.10; feeder cows were mostly $16 to $18; fat cows, $17.15 to $18.50; and a few heifers weighing 1,000 pounds, $21.50. Bulls sold $18.50 to $20.25.

In the hog market, 200- and 250-pounders brought $19 to $19.40; 250- to 300-pounders, $18 to $18.90; 300- to 350-pounders, $17.50 to $18.25; sows under 400 pounds, $17 on down; heavy sows, $15 to $16.50; stags, $12 to $14.

HUNDREDS VISIT ANNUAL IRIS SHOW

ATKINSON—Several hundred persons registered at the iris show held in the Memorial hall Tuesday and Wednesday May 24 and 25. Visitors came from Atkinson, O'Neill, Stuart, and other surrounding communities.

Mrs. George Frohardt's entries were among those to receive the highest number of points in the judging.

The number of specimens was virtually countless. The iris, along with a variety of other flowers, ranging from the tiniest to the largest in size and from pale yellows and lavenders to gorgeous bright colors, created a fairland of beauty.

The single entries of iris were displayed separately. Along both sides of the hall was every conceivable arrangement of mixed bouquets, novel arrangements, corsages and groupings.
