'How Is Lulu?' To Be Answered

ATKINSON—How long is Lulu?

What does "Dare Devil Dives Into a Damp Dishrag" mean?

These and other enigmas will be revealed at the Boy Scout carnival and pie sale to be sponsored tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 in the KC hall. Admission will be one pie per woman and her escort.

Thirty-four Scouts of Troop 180, sponsored by the Atkinson Service club, under the direction of their scoutmaster, Lawrence Kramer, and their assistant scoutmasters, Howard Davis, Dean Funk and Glen Lawrence, have completed preparations for one of the largest scouting events ever to take place in Atkinson.

Instead of watching the Scouts perform such feats as knot tying, firemaking and others the audience will get a chance to win inflated quantities of "scout bucks" by performing these same accomplishments under the watchful eyes of the Boy Scouts who have mastered the scouting projects.

The KC hall will take on the aspects of a county fair when 19 different booths are set up. Booths will include these subjects:

1. How long is Lulu?
2. Tying the diamond hitch.
3. Fire by friction.
4. Dart throwing.
5. First fundamentals booth.
6. Heave a line.
7. Correct procedure on sharpening knives and hatchets.
8. Knot-tying.
9. Bring 'em back alive.
10. Second booth on fundamentals.
11. First aid.
12. Roping a horse.
13. Cooking with foil.
14. Judging height.
15. Third booth on fundamentals.
16. Archery.
17. Beebee guns for target shooting.
18. Sandhill natural sand bank.
19. Registration.

As they pass along, guests will be given a test on scouting fundamentals for which all answers will be located at some point in the displays. Those getting the test correctly completed will be awarded 1,000 "scout bucks."

"Scout bucks" may be spent later in the evening in bidding on door prizes which, of course, will go to the persons who have been successful in winning the most "dollars."

Adults will assist in the guise of barkers to lure customers to the booths and in some cases will help in carrying out the tests. Barkers so far chosen include Donald ("Bub") Davis, George Mentzer, Gene Castner, Robert Horner and John Ward.

H. W. Hahn, scout executive for the Covered Wagon Council, will come from Omaha, and he, assisted by Mr. Endsworth, scout executive for the district, will preside at fundamentals booth No. 1.

Harry Peterson, of O'Neill, will head a group of men from that town to preside at fundamentals booth No. 2, and a troop committee will be in charge of fundamentals booth 3.

Pies charged for admission will be auctioned off at the end of the evening. Any profits of the evening will be used for community projects, according to Kramer.

Members of the troop committee which has helped as an advisory body are Laurence Storchmann, chairman, C. E. Spence, Ralton Jarvis, Woody Freeman and Dr. F. J. Mancuso.

State Capitol News—

150 New Doctors Granted Permission To Practice Medicine in State

LINCOLN—Nebraska has a new state health director — "temporarily."

Dr. Frank Snyder, 60, of Grand Island, accepted Gov. Val Peterson's appointment, but said:

"It is my desire to hold the job temporarily and you may continue to seek a doctor who wants to make a career of public health work."

Doctor Ryder will assume his post November 15.

The present health director, Dr. W. S. Petty, will probably return to his former position as chief of the community health division. Because this office is financed by both state and federal funds, he will receive more than the $5,500 a year paid the state director.

Doctor Ryder was graduated from Creighton medical college and has practiced in Grand Island since 1920. He served in both wars.

Governor Peterson wants the facts and figures on production and distribution of hydroelectric power in Nebraska and the Dakotas. He has directed a request to W. G. Sloan, bureau of reclamation representative and chairman of the Missouri Basin Interagency committee, asking for "full and complete" information concerning plans of the bureau and of the army engineers in the matter.

"When we have this information," the governor said, "then the committee should be able to get down to cases."

Governors of North and South Dakota both have registered protests with present allocations of power from the Ft. Randall project. Under federal law, Nebraska would get almost half of all the power produced because it is a public power state.

Politics flavored statehouse discussions this week.

The talk centered around a possible successor to A. T. ("Bert") Howard, of Scottsbluff, who has indicated he would resign his chairmanship of the state Republican central committee. Howard has been re-nominating at his home after suffering a stroke in Lincoln several weeks ago.

Robert Crosby, North Platte lawyer and lieutenant-governor during Governor Peterson's first term, took himself out of the running for the job.

"My chief reason," he said, "is that I am now chairman of the state Citizen's Committee for Action on the Hoover commission recommendations. This is a bipartisan activity. I am enthusiastic about it and it takes all of my spare time."

Meanwhile, Max A. Denney, Fairbury city attorney, and unsuccessful candidate for the GOP's nomination as attorney general in the last election, jumped into the race.

He said he is seeking office "because I believe the time is ripe for the GOP to tap all of its potentialities in Nebraska. The way should be open for all citizens of Nebraska, Republicans and Democrats, to join together in opposition to increased government controls and higher taxes."

Joseph Wishart, treasurer of the state party organization, represented Howard at a mid-west GOP pow-wow last weekend. The Lincoln attorney was acting state chairman during the Dewey campaign and is believed interested in the job.

Rent control got back into the state capitol headlines last week with a request from Omaha Mayor Glen Cunningham to Governor Peterson to summon a special session of the legislature to deal with controls since rent gouging had created a "general state of emergency."

The chief executive declined to call the session and said:

"It was my judgment and still is that rent decontrol should have been determined by the people of the communities involved."

The governor commented that special sessions are expensive, usually disrupting and "It is a serious matter to call one."

"However, if this problem gets out of hand, it might prove necessary to place it in the hands of the legislature," he said.

"Certainly, consideration for calling a special session could only be given on the basis of specific, detailed information regarding the rental situation after the effective date of decontrol."

"Fair enough," said Mayor Cunningham.

The board of control reported last week that the state penitentiary here is crowded past the point recommended by penal experts and the situation is likely to grow worse.

At week's end there were 819 inmates in the pen with three and four prisoners in some cells.

If commitments continue to surpass the number of prisoners discharged, the board will be compelled to build a separate barracks, it said. The board's 10-year plan includes a dormitory for approximately 250 trustees, expected to cost around $500,000.

A rundown of other developments:

Rolland Harr, chief of safety and law enforcement in the state aeronautics department, said only six fatal air accidents occurred during the first nine months of this year, resulting in nine deaths. This is 57 percent under the same nine months of 1948.

Fifty brand-new doctors were authorized to practice in the state. The list just released shows these from out-state towns: Kenneth A. Blinn, Elkhorn; I. B. Braverman, Grand Island; Robert Calkins, Beatrice; Leo DeBacker, Hastings; Melvin Hoyt, Whitman; Carroll Schoen, Platte Center; Bernard Wendt, Riverdale; Robert McIntyre, Campbell; Charles Miller, Elm Creek; Earl A. Purizer, Scottsbluff; Fred Rutt, Hastings.

Fair Board Secretary Ed Schultz said the last payment on Nebraska's fairgrounds grandstand debt should be made next year. The board will pay $58,000 this year, leaving a balance of $15,000.
