The Harry Evans Show Company, consisting of 12 talented stage and radio stars, made their first appearance at the Legion auditorium Friday, September 30, and was enthusiastically received by the capacity crowd that attended.

The evening performance featured a three-act stage play titled "All The Comforts of Home," preceded by an eight-act vaudeville presentation and followed by a real western barn dance. The Rhythm Wranglers, an eight-piece dance band, furnished the music for the dance and justly deserve the enviable reputation of versatility by playing any and all types of dance music requested, both modern and old time music.

This organization is making weekly appearances at the Legion auditorium every Sunday night with a complete change of program, for an indefinite time, and if the audience response to their premiere performance is any criterion they will be with us for "quite a spell."

Outstanding in the vaudeville presentation was the unprecedented dexterity of Joe Stanley on his accordion and Freddie Stone and his violin. Other vaudeville features included the Nelson Sister, tap dancers; Bob Aga, guitarist and cowboy singer; "Slim" Kaas, creek fiddler; The Sagebrush Trio; Bonnie Lee, song stylist; Eddie Jessen and his saxophone and those veterans of stage and radio, Claudia and Harry Evans.
