OPA To Help Veterans Become Tire Dealers

As a further step in revising its rationing regulations to assist returning veterans wishing to open small businesses, the Sioux City OPA Director announced this week that the Office of Price Administration has made it possible for veterans of the present war to become tire dealers on a small scale.

Because of the acute shortage of tires, OPA for the last year has not given permission to anyone not already in the tire business to get certificates for truck or passenger tires. In keeping with the Government's program to aid returning veterans, OPA is now relaxing this regulation to permit veterans to obtain stocks of tires, as was done earlier in the year in the case of rationed foods. Should the veteran establish himself in such business, the Sioux City District Office will give him certificates to buy a stock of ten passenger tires, four small and two large truck tires, and six tractor-impliment tires. As the tires are sold, the veteran may replenish his stock by sending the certificates to his supplier for replacements, Mr. Rawlings said.
