City Fat Saving Record Falls Under Town and Farm Push

Ever since our government asked town and farm women to save used fats, the record previously set by city women has taken a beating. It has been up the good word. The country is facing a shortage of 1 billion, 500 million pounds of fats in domestic supplies. Most of the fats required for the war effort are in town and farm districts are in a better position to save fats than most city folks, so the government is depending on us. Save every drop, every scrap. Melt down solid fats. There's never too little to save! Butchers will give you up to 4¢ and 2 red points a pound. Trace Jap War Plan to Parley

Eack in 1930 They Planned To Block United States With Submarines.

WASHINGTON.—As early as 1930 Japan spread a smokescreen of propaganda and diplomatic double talk which may have helped to disguise her intentions in Asia and the Pacific. This is suggested by the release of state department papers relating to American foreign affairs in 1930, the year of the naval disarmament conference in London, according to the Associated Press. The papers show the Japanese at this conference were seeking to get the prevailing naval ratio of 10-10-6 for America, Britain and Japan, set by the Washington naval treaty in 1922, revised to 10-10-7. Japanese naval experts told American naval attaches in Tokyo that if Japan had anything less than 7 to America's 10 in naval strength she would inevitably lose any war in which the two powers might become involved.

Quick Decision. The theory they spread was that in the event of war, America would seek a quick decision, because a war of attrition would use up American merchant shipping and lose American carrying trade to rivals. The American fleet, they theorized, would go immediately from Pearl Harbor to Manila if war should be declared, and, as a counter measure, the Japanese would intercept them with a large fleet of submarines operating from the Marshall and Caroline Islands. All this was reported at the time to the state department by William R. Castle Jr., then American ambassador in Tokyo. He further reported that Masanobu Hanihara, former Japanese ambassador to the United States, had called upon him with a story about how public opinion in Japan feared an American attack because it was believed American naval plans covered the possibility of war with Japan to compel Japanese acceptance of American ideas regarding China. "Acting Under Instructions." Hanihara told Castle that war with the United States would be the worst possible disaster for Japan, and Japan could never think of it. Castle informed the department that Hanihara was obviously acting under instructions. He said he told Hanihara that "our aims approximated the Japanese as both countries wanted only a China which was substantially and politically sound." Against this background, the events of the next 11 years stand out: The next year, 1931, Japan struck in Manchuria, in a campaign of aggression against China which continues today. In 1941 the Japanese struck first in the Pacific and attempted to force a decision themselves by knocking out Pearl Harbor and capturing Manila quickly. Their alleged plans about using submarine fleets to stop American naval advance through the Marshalls and Carolines did not materialize. One of the great mysteries of this war is the little Japanese submarine activity that has been reported.

100,000 Nazi Prisoners Will Be Brought to U. S. WASHINGTON.—An additional 100,000 German war prisoners will be brought to this country to ease the labor shortage here and the burden of guarding them abroad. Their arrival will swell the total in the United States to more than 400,000. A war department announcement said they will be used only for essential work for which no civilian labor is available. Cigarette Shortage Is Recognized by Judge BIRMINGHAM.—Police Judge Oliver B. Hall has accorded the cigarette shortage judicial recognition. He was resuming court after a recess when he noticed a witness with a just-lighted cigarette. He hastily called a second recess and said to the smoker: "Go ahead and finish your smoke and then I'll call court to order again." Foxhole Surprise on Western Front Reported HICKORY, N. C.—Dawn came on the Western front, Sgt. Robert Adams wrote his parents, and he tried to awaken his unknown foxhole companion. Adams gave up and went to chow. When he returned he shouted again at his sleeping companion. This time the response was quick. It was "Kamerad!" Returning Veterans Assured of U. S. Jobs WASHINGTON.—Any person in nontemporary government jobs formerly held by returning soldiers will be displaced so the veterans can have their places. If the old jobs exist, a civil service spokesman said, they will no longer exist. Returning veterans will be put back in jobs of like status and pay.

Ironing Pad Distribute the ironing over the entire ironing surface. This keeps the pad from packing unevenly and the ironing shoe from getting too hot in unused spots and scorching cover and pad. To freshen the padding when it packs with use, take off the muslin cover, then the padding. Be sure to check the way it fits on the roller or table. Fluff it up, reverse it, air it and replace it. Avoid ironing over anything hard that might injure the ironing surface. Turn buttons, snaps, zippers, and other hard, bumpy things toward the padding. WHERE "GIVE AND TAKE" WORKS WONDERS Lumberjacks know the secret. So do most users of party lines! On the telephone, it means a few courteous habits such as keeping calls short... resisting the impulse to make half a dozen calls in succession... not breaking in on someone else's conversation... making sure the receiver is in place between calls... being a generous telephone neighbor. This sort of "give and take" makes party line service better for all concerned. NORTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

Farm Machinery Off Ration List Rationing of all farm-implementation and industrial type tires will end at midnight, August 20, 1945. M. E. Rawlings, Sioux City District OPA Director, announced today. Truck tires and passenger tires remain rationed. "We are advised today by the War Production Board that ample supplies of all sizes and types of farm-implementation tires, including tractor tires, and the types used on various kinds of industrial equipment are now available to meet requirements, so we are removing them from rationing," Mr. Rawlings said. "Unfortunately the shortage of both passenger and truck tires is still so acute that they must continue to be rationed. If rationing of these tires were ended now, the short supply would be absorbed very rapidly and in all probability an acute situation would result in passenger car and truck transportation. "Passenger tires and truck tires that are used on farm equipment must continue to be rationed because of the short supply. Farmers needing them will continue to apply to their local War Price and Rationing Boards for purchase certificates as they have in the past."
