Home Building Resumed, but Will Be Year or More Before Most People Can Expect Their 'Dream House'

Material Shortages Delay Construction On Any Large Scale

By W. WADSWORTH WOOD

Government restrictions on building of private houses ends October 15. This comes as heartening news to the 12 million families who are said to be ready and anxious to build new homes. Now these people are wondering: Should we sell our present home or give up our lease in the hope of building right away? What plans can we safely and confidently make right now?

This question raises several other ones, which may be summarized thus:

1. What will building COSTS be, in comparison with those of prewar years?
2. Will conventional materials such as lumber, brick, etc., be of poorer quality than prewar?
3. What are the new and different features and materials so widely discussed for coming homes? Are these miracles in terms of revolutionary heating, streamlined kitchens, and push-button laundries yet available?

Here is the result of serious thinking, first on the subject of costs. While the government unofficially estimates that home building costs have increased one-third (requiring one thus to pay $8,000 for a house that could be built for $6,000 before the war)—these costs are really apt to run somewhat higher. It may take $9,000 to build that former $6,000 home. This is partly because labor costs are steadily rising, and 73 per cent of the total building costs are directly or indirectly labor costs!

Residents in some sections of the country, such as in the South, may confidently expect lower prices due to the fact that the less severe climates permit the elimination of basements, sub-floors, etc. Less expensive insulation, also less expensive central heating plants, prove adequate.

Recent wide and authoritative studies, such as the two-year survey conducted by Small Homes Guide, revealed very pointedly why this fact is so important. They show that 47.4 per cent of families now planning to build, expect to spend from $4,000 to $6,000. Another large percentage, 30.7 per cent, plan to build in the $6,000 to $10,000 class, while only about 6 per cent are planning to build in the $10,000 and better class.

If these families are to get full value for their money, the home

Stone and wood combine to make this attractive house. The built-in garage is one of its most appealing features. Contractors estimate it could be constructed for about $9,000, which is within the range about one-third of home builders are willing to pay.

low the trend towards saving expensive site labor costs.

While the home building restrictions are being lifted, as of October 15, the announcement carries with it a six-point program that involves several directives aimed at correcting the present situation. These will seek to hasten production of scarce building materials; will strengthen inventory controls to prevent hoarding; will expand OPA price control of building materials to prevent inflationary pressure; control mortgage practices; facilitate action by industry groups and widely advise on home values. In the directive, great stress is put upon the rapid expansion of the home building industry as the greatest single added source of jobs in our entire economy, and the statement is made that: "we also know that the present housing shortage is bound to continue for some time and that there may be pressure to increase the price of new homes in response to an active demand."

In the light of these facts, thousands will be asking such questions as this: "Should I renew my present lease which expires in six months, or try to build a new home right away?" Wise advice would appear to be this: Renew for one year. A year and a half is not too much time for thoughtful planning and careful working out of your family's requirements—from site selection to the details of built-in storage facilities. There are countless houses that could have been good houses if a few extra months had been used for planning.

Electric ranges, refrigerators with deep-freeze compartments, sinks with built-in dishwashers, cabinets of all sizes . . . everything will be ready for the new kitchen early next year.

building industry must hasten to eliminate the traditional "hammer-and-saw" practices of "cut-fit-and-try." Certain union practices and antiquated building codes, too long held intact by local pressure groups, must also be changed.

We are frequently asked: "When can we be sure of being able to get good quality building materials?" To this, our best authorities quickly tell us that most of the hard materials such as cement, sand, lime, stone, etc., are plentiful. Brick and cement block vary with the regional manpower picture. Good, dry lumber is scarce, and the precise local situation here should be carefully checked with a reputable lumber dealer in your community.

Someone else asks: "What are the newest developments in construction material that I can expect to get within the next six months?" Our reply indicates that waterproof plywood, plastic-finished wallboards, fireproof asphalt shingles, light metal framing, complete package units: windows, doors, built-in closets, cabinets, fireplaces, will all be available. These new developments fol-

These handsome houses come within the price class that at least a third of prospective home builders expect to pay. Building at the left is of common brick and would cost about $8,000. One at right is priced at $6,000.

INGRID BERGMAN'S finished 7½ million dollars' worth of films, all Academy Award material, that haven't been released as yet. Two years ago she did "Saratoga Trunk," with Gary Cooper, but Warners had a lot of war pictures on hand, so "Saratoga Trunk" was held up, may be released in February. Then she did "Spellbound," which may be out soon. After that came "The Bells of St. Mary's," with Bing, due at Christmas time. Now she's making "Notorious." Then she'll make another USO tour through the Pacific area; after that she'll go abroad for "The Scarlet Lily," to be made in Palestine and Jerusalem—it's supposed to be the life story of Mary Magdalene.

Alice Frost, radio's leading shudder-show charmer, has an album filled with horrible photos of herself—about to be murdered, screaming with fright, etc. One's signed "One of my fondest heroines, Boris Karloff." The pictures were taken on every mystery series she's starred on.

Dennis O'Keefe says it's an empty honor that stole up on him as he was finishing his co-starring role in "Getting Gertie's Garter"—the optometrists of Westwood, Calif., voted him the man "best suited to wear glasses"—which he doesn't!

Maj. Allen Martini, whose Flying Fortress, "Dry Martini," holds the world's record for shooting down 15 German planes in 22 minutes, makes his screen debut as an officer of a B-29 in "The Bamboo Blonde." He was production assistant on RKO's "The Falcon's Alibi," and during his college days was identified with Little Theater groups at Palo Alto.

Producer Edward Small, planning to make "The Life of Valentino," can't decide whether to hand the choice role to a star or an unknown. Unknowns have done all right in big parts—Cornel Wilde in "A Song to Remember," Robert Alda in "A Rhapsody in Blue," Jennifer Jones in "The Song of Bernadette." On the other hand, Paramount gambled—to the tune of a million or so—on Isa Miranda, in "Hotel Imperial," and lost, as did Goldwyn with Anna Sten. Still, Small is inclined to take a chance on the man who'll play Valentino.

Reconversion is here on the air as well as in industry, especially in "Superman." He was doing fine with the atom last year, till war department officials asked him to lay off, for reasons of military security. So now he's set to do things with Kryptonite, more powerful than Uranium, with the problems of establishing peace in the world uppermost in his mind.

Robert Cummings will never forget certain scenes in "The Bride Wore Boots," in which he co-stars with Barbara Stanwyck. They were made on location at Hidden Valley, with the temperature past the 100-degree mark. In the script it was Christmas. So Bob wore a heavy, well-padded suit, and a beard, regardless of the blistering sun—he was being Santa Claus.

Fast work on the part of actor-soldier Patrick Lee landed him a screen role while enjoying a two-week furlough. He took a bus from Camp Roberts to Hollywood, hitchhiked to Warners, and by noon was before the cameras in "Her Kind of Man," with Faye Emerson, Zachary Scott and Dane Clark. He said the best part of the job was wearing a blue serge suit for the first time in over two years.

ODDS AND ENDS—Parkyakarkus is grateful for the publicity—a soldier wrote him from a Louisiana army camp that on a certain night recently, the password was "Meet Me at Parky's." . . . Best kept secret in Hollywood's radio circles was the recent appearance of Bing Crosby's boy on the opening Frank Sinatra program—it was kept for ten days before the broadcast. . . . "Mr. District Attorney" leads the list of first fifteen evening "Network Hooperations." . . . Jerry Colonna's first film role since his return from an overseas tour with Bob Hope is in the Disney "Make Mine Music"—singing "Casey at the Bat."

Coffee Table That Has End Shelves An Easy Task for Man and Wife

There is a special thrill in this table for it represents the joint handiwork of its owners. The base is painted and then waxed. An interesting map or a series of pictures could have been used under the practical glass top, but instead a touch of sentiment was added with morning glories cut out of bright fabric and sewn to cream-colored material.

NOTE—Pattern 254 gives complete directions for this table. The Morning Glory applique is made with hot iron transfer No. 202. Patterns are 15 cents each postpaid. Send order with name and address to:
