

This Thanksgiving Day of 1945 is the one we have all been looking forward to. A Thanksgiving Day without war! Our boys and girls in the Armed Forces returning home or if not released, the hopeful prospect of their coming home soon. We are freed of the awful terror tugging in our hearts that one or more of our loved ones are in constant danger. This can truly be a good old-fashioned Thanksgiving Day!

In our celebrating however, let us not lose sight of the object behind the day and let's be truly thankful for the rich blessings, a kind providence has bestowed upon us as individuals and upon this community as a whole.

Here is a community of friendly happy people. We are richly blessed with those things that can make this an ideal spot in which to live and do business. Our future as a community can be just what we want to make it.

Grateful for our many blessings and thankful that we can be a part of this fine community and help in its continuing prosperity and growth, we the individuals and business firms below give public expression to these sentiments this Thanksgiving Day of 1945.
