All hogs except stags brought ceiling prices of 14.10 for butchers and 13.35 for sows. Bring your hogs in any Saturday to the old O'Neill Livestock Yards, between the hours of 9 A.M. and 5 P.M. Mr. J. L. Pruden will be there to buy them at ceiling prices. Phone No. 2.

Self-Regulation and Good Government

Self-regulation means that the man in business regulates his own conduct and the conduct of his help and his customers while in his place of business in such a way that constituted officials have little to do about law enforcement and the correction of bad practices. There is a vast difference between a desire to observe the laws and a determination or desire to "cheat the law."

All licensed beer retailers are aware of Self-Regulation and the great majority believe in its principles. Frequent observations and suggestions are made by the Nebraska Committee for better operating practices, and in most instances, retailers readily follow suggestions. If a retailer does not, representations are made to the licensing and law enforcement authorities who will see to it that the offending licensee either corrects his faults or is deprived of his license.

Such a vigilant program assures your city or community of reputable retailers, who sell beer in a legal and wholesome manner.
