Another Milestone Makes 79! PIONEERS still were migrating westward on that first day of March, seventy-nine years ago when that newest addition to the growing family of our beloved United States achieved statehood. On March 1, 1867, when Nebraska became a state, many of those hardy, earlier Americans already had envisioned the great possibilities in this vast area of many rivers. Fertility of the soil pointed to opportunity, plus that ever-important element—the presence of "room in which to grow, expand, develop." They were our forefathers, Nebraska's pioneers. THERE ARE PIONEERS TODAY Men of vision, foresight—modern pioneers—dwell in Nebraska today. They can see great opportunities for Nebraska and Nebraskans still ahead. Their great faith has led them into a modern pioneering development which will bring Nebraska, its people, its communities large and small, its agriculture, business and industry, to even greater heights. These men planned and now have in actual productive, efficient operation, a genuine state-wide electric power system serving hundreds of small and large communities alike throughout this inland commonwealth. Harnessing the flow of Nebraska rivers and combining the resulting hydro-electric power with the electric generating capacities of many modern steam plants strategically located from border to border, these far-sighted Nebraskans now provide hundreds of thousands of people in the state with reliable electric power at attractively low rates. And the entire development is owned by the people it serves—a unique situation in electric utilities. Yes, your Consumers Public Power District literally is a pioneer of state-wide public power in America. As a vital force and a basic industry in Nebraska, Consumers takes real pleasure in congratulating the state, its thriving communities, and its sound-thinking population upon seventy-nine years of progressive growth and development. YOUR CONSUMERS PUBLIC POWER DISTRICT Organized by Nebraskans for Nebraskans; Owned and Operated by Nebraskans! PIONEERS OF STATE-WIDE PUBLIC POWER IN AMERICA
