Even Crops Can Tell You When They're Hungry

A farmer with the "know-how" can spot, at a glance, evidence of starvation in his growing crops, and remedy it. You will find it profitable to learn the signs of "hidden hunger" in your crops, whether you are selling them as cash crops or using them as feed for livestock. Once you have learned to understand the "sign language" of plants, you can often tell just by looking at a growing plant whether it is drawing from the soil all the nitrogen, phosphorus, potash and other elements it must have to produce healthy, high-yielding crops.

- A deficiency in these essential elements will affect the plant's appearance in some way which will tell you just what is short. Here are some of the "hunger signs" in corn, for example: • Yellowish-green leaves and stunted growth indicates nitrogen deficiency. • Tips of leaves gummed together indicates calcium deficiency. • Purple color in leaves indicates phosphorus deficiency. • Bottom leaves dead; yellow striping between

- veins of upper leaves (condition known as "white-bud") indicates zinc deficiency. • Scorching along the edges of leaves indicates potash deficiency. • Regular yellowish-white stripes on leaves indicate magnesium deficiency. Other crops also show "hunger signs" which can be recognized at a glance if you know their sign language. Your county agent or vocational agricultural teacher can tell you about them or advise you about books or bulletins which give detailed information. Because of their thorough understanding of soil and crop conditions in your district, they are the men to answer your questions. Both are ready and able to help you. They know the signs of crop malnutrition and can give you valuable advice.

NUTRITION IS OUR BUSINESS—AND YOURS Right Eating Adds Life to Your Years—and Years to Your Life

Worth thinking about: Consider that common little word a-n-d. It usually joins things together, but now and then we use it to separate things which should not be separated. Strawberry-shortcake is a homely example of our meaning. It's eaten everywhere... it has two parts... but no one ever separates that satisfying combination in word or thought. You'd never think of saying strawberry and shortcake. So it is with many combinations which cannot exist separately. There's agriculture-andustry and the livestock-meat industry, for example. These combinations cannot be split into separate sections, because all parts of each are dependent on the others. The production of livestock and the preparation and distribution of meat are as inseparable as strawberry-shortcake. When producers prosper, meat packers prosper. When one suffers constant loss, the other must suffer also. Those of us in the livestock-meat industry have mutual interests, and we work together toward a common goal.

Ratty Arithmetic: One rat eats about 150 pounds of corn per year. It costs you as much to keep 10 rats as to keep 17 laying hens. Those 17 layers could produce 200 eggs each, at 36¢ per dozen, which would bring you $102. For 10¢ you can poison those rats. Then, you can feed the corn to your hens and collect the difference of $101.90.

EDITOR'S COLUMN You who raise and feed livestock know as well as I do that the problems of the livestock-meat industry are usually mighty complicated. Naturally, I am always interested in what others have to say about our problems, especially in the press or over the radio. During the recent meat strike, for instance, I was impressed with the effort that was made to place both sides of the question before the public. On the other hand, I was disturbed, on several occasions, by statements made by people who either did not know all the facts, or who ignored them—people whose words consisted of part-truths and their own biased opinions. To my way of thinking, all of us should consider all the facts that are available if we are to form a fair opinion on any subject. And so, it seems to me especially important that ranchers and farmers have the fullest factual understanding of every part of the livestock-meat industry. Now I don't pretend to know all there is to know, and you probably have many facts that I lack. But from long experience in this business we have learned many things which might help clear up certain doubts and questions you may have in your mind. If there are things about our business that you aren't sure about, we would appreciate hearing from you. We will reply with whatever facts we have. I am sure that our correspondence will make for a better mutual understanding of our common problems. F.M. Simpson, Agricultural Research Department
