SMALL DOSES -- Past & Present:

Amelia's Fourth

By ROMAINE SAUNDERS, Special Correspondent

The crow of a rooster, a turdove sending out its call, the flutter of wings as birds stir from drowsy slumber, and our great national birthday dawns on prairie land. But where is the boom and crackle of explosives, the boys and girls with firecrackers and torpedoes?

It can't be that young America has lost either love of noise or the patriotic impulse to make it on the 4th of July. If the laws have laid legal restraints on fireworks and fun of our great national holiday, something should be provided to replace the noisy hilarity.

Maybe the Free Methodists of Amelia community found the solution by holding a Sunday school picnic. Vold air, thirsty earth freshened by an inch of gentle rainfall the night of the 3rd, was ideal for such a gathering in the shade of lofty cottonwoods near the church. Because of the thoughtfulness of Harry White this lone pilgrim was a guest. Mr. Wadsworth, father of Pastor Wadsworth, was down from his home on the Big Sandy, and Rev. P. T. and Mrs. Fisher of Arlington, Wash., here visiting their son, Paul Fisher, and family, were also among the guests.

At one o'clock there was something more than the traditional "delicious lunch." Plates with fork and spoon were handed "we men" and we made as many trips as we liked to the boards loaded with the culinary delights from ranch house kitchens.

A cynic has said that youth is great; too bad it is wasted on young people. But what is more inspiring than a group

A Statement of Facts About Absence of --

OPA Price Ceilings
and Home Canning

— Now that OPA is out, as a firm which has operated for 32 years in Nebraska, we wish to state that WE INTEND TO CONTINUE TO OPERATE AT A NORMAL PROFIT MARK-UP.

— We cannot foretell what the producers prices will be but in all items of plentiful production we believe prices will increase little if any.

BING CHERRIES . . .
All producing sections are through. They are Plentiful on this week's market.

APRICOTS . . .
July 8-22 will see Idaho 1/2 bushel "cots" on the market and about 10 days later Washington Apricots will be available.

A TIP
Keep in mind all canning fruit this year is 10 DAYS to 2 Weeks EARLIER than normal.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN TO CITRUS FRUIT PRICES . . .

Due to the nature of our industry and in answer to some radio announcements relative to the citrus fruit situation, we want to give you the following facts:

Before OPA was born, from the beginning of the Citrus fruit industry, prices were made according to crop yields. Supply and demand, we are sure, will govern citrus prices according to the size of fruits.

For example, this year, due to weather conditions in the orange producing sections the crop is running mostly to small sizes.

Small oranges will be plentiful and you will find them very moderately priced — and your best buy for juice. The larger sizes will be scarce, therefore higher.

There is a variance at this time up to $5.00 a box (a situation you never found under OPA pricing when all sizes were sold at the same price).

In other words, PRICES WILL INCREASE SOME ON LARGER SIZES . . . but the LOWER PRICES ON SMALL SIZE ORANGES behooves the thrifty housewife to purchase the SMALL ORANGES as they are more economical for juice.
