DON'T TOUCH LOOSE WIRES!

In storms or such emergencies over which man has no control, electric wires are sometimes broken or torn loose, creating hazards. Our service men are on the job to take precautions against pending dangers as soon as possible. However, as a matter of personal safety, we urge you to keep away from any loose or broken wires. Please notify our office of any such conditions and wait until a qualified electrician can remove the danger. Electricity is a valuable and obedient servant when handled properly. But, through improper handling it can be fatal.

PARENTS, Warn children about the dangers of touching any wires.
