SMALL DOSES — Past & Present:

By ROMAINE SAUNDERS, Special Correspondent

The sun is receding toward winter quarters. At this writing, day and night setting are nearly equal, the sun rising at 6:11 and setting at 6:30. When gold of early autumn sunset is submerged in dark shadows, when night has spread its pinions over prairieland and the song of birds has been stilled the evening star glows in regal beauty low in the southwest heavens — the first to appear on the starry dome's opening page. "The host of heaven cannot be numbered," declared Jeremiah. They need not be numbered. Numberless, sublime — the reflection of the greater splendor out beyond the vast unknown shining from the throne of God.

I cannot lay a hand upon the Milky Way
Nor paint the sunset's burnished gold;
But I shall see His glory there
Within my heart to hold.

Out of an exalted sense of religious fervor, some churchmen decry the Hiroshima bombing now, more than a year on the scroll of American military records. It was Hiroshima or ultimately Washington. In the grim business of war compassionate impulse is subdued in the all-out effort to crush the foe. The A-bomb brought Nippon to his knees, ended the war, saved the lives of countless Yankee soldiers and sailors, opened prison camps of horror and pagan lands to a fuller freedom for the spread of the churchmen's message.

I have been favored with a marked copy of a publication, whose inspired genius may be either communist, anarchist or patriot. But see what he has in cold type: " . . . the Magna Charta . . . Declaration of Independence of 1776. . . those documents have failed us!" That for which colonialists sacrificed their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor have not failed us. We will fail them unless out of this troubled hour comes a resurgence of the spirit of '76.

An "Emily Post" of the Twelfth century promulgated these rules for table manners: Scratches not thy head with thy fingers when thou art at thy meate; nor spytte thee over the table board; see thou doest not this forget. Pick not thy teeth with thy knyfe nor thy fingers ends, but take a stick or some cleane thing, then doe you not offend. loath of rye bread.

Have you lost faith in the race? Maybe this incident will revive it: A bus driver of the Lincoln City Lines recently retrieved a ladies' lost purse containing $50, saw it advertised, and returned it to the owner, declining to accept a reward.

The greatest judicial proceedings in the history of criminal trial drag on month-after-month at Nuernberg, but humanity is mercifully spared the gruesome details of execution of sentence.

I'm going to get another pocket cuspidor, wheezed the hay fever victim as he cast aside a soiled handkerchief.

If we fail to get "what the country needs," it will not be for a lack of patriots whose hats are filled with remedies.

An up-to-date University football squad may in the future be known, as "cornpickers."

LARGE CROWDS AT JOHNSON RITES

CHAMBERS — Funeral services for Miss Elizabeth H. (Bertha) Johnson, 68, were held September 18 at the Baptist church here, with Rev. Basil Anderson, of Norfolk, officiating.

A quartette, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Leo T. Adams, Mrs. Letha Cooke and Hylas Farrier, Ruth Smith as pianist, sang "Asleep in Jesus," and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" Rev. Anderson sang "Beyond the Sunset."

The pallbearers were nephews; John and Carol Isaacson, Lawrence Tangeman, Herbert Nielson, Paul Harley and Eric Dankert. Interment was in the Chambers cemetery in a family plot.

A large crowd filled the church for the rites.

Friends attending from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Gibson, of Neligh; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murray, of Neligh; Mr. and Mrs. Clint Taylor, of Clearwater; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Prebnow, of Ewing; Irvin Prebnow, of Albion and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gokie, of O'Neill.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heart felt thanks to all our neighbors and friends for the kindness shown us during the illness and death of our dear sister and aunt, and for the beautiful floral offerings. Also, we wish to thank Rev. Basil Anderson for his comforting words and song, and the choir and the pianist for their songs and music. We are especially thankful for the flowers, cards and letters that she enjoyed so much while at the hospital.

Clarence, Alvin and Alice Johnson; Mr. and Mrs. Dellie Fauquier; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tangeman and family; David, Carol and John Isaacson; Mr. and Mrs. Eric Dankert and Douglas; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harkins and family; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harley and family; Mr. and Mrs. Nielsen and family.

To those who eagerly await their new Chevrolets . . .

Here Is the Latest News about Chevrolet Deliveries

Everybody from factory to dealer is doing everything that can be done to speed deliveries to you

We have been informed by the Chevrolet Motor Division that the past month has witnessed only a slight improvement in the rate of production of new Chevrolet passenger cars. As a result, shipments of new cars to dealers for delivery are still far below the level we and the factory had hoped to attain by this time. In fact, through August, Chevrolet's output of cars in 1946 was only 22.6% of the number turned out during the corresponding period of 1941.

We know that Chevrolet is doing everything possible to step up its production totals—to ship more and more cars to us and to its thousands of other dealers throughout America . . . and we know, too, that we are assured of getting our full proportionate share of the current output and of future production gains.

Disappointing as the total figures have been—and despite the fact that Chevrolet was out of production entirely during the first three months of the year—it is nevertheless true that Chevrolet led all other manufacturers in production of passenger cars during June 1946, and has continued to maintain its lead in total production from that day to this.

We shall continue to make deliveries of new Chevrolets to our customers just as fast as we receive them; we regret delays as deeply as you do; we thank you for your friendly patience and understanding; and we promise you a new high motoring experience when you take delivery of your new Chevrolet, giving BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST!
