Your Rights Are Respected

Even if you are not a tavern patron, you as a citizen have certain rights connected with beer selling in your town which you should not neglect. The Nebraska Committee, representing the beer industry of the state with a program of self-regulation, is anxious that you do not yield them.

If you observe beer-selling conditions which you consider bad or unwholesome, you are urged to take an interest and make complaints to the responsible enforcement authorities. Your action will have the support of most beer retailers in your community, as well as of the Nebraska Committee under its program of self-regulation. Our work helps citizen and beer retailer to avoid or correct practices which arouse public displeasure.

Such cooperation—by the public, law enforcement agencies, Nebraska Committee and the entire beer industry—gives Nebraska its high standards of tavern operations. Even better conditions is our constant objective.

The Cost of Providing Telephone Service is Much Higher NOW

The cost of furnishing telephone service has gone up very rapidly in the last few years.

Since 1940, our payroll in Nebraska (which is about two-thirds of the total cost of providing telephone service) has more than doubled. Prices of materials, supplies and equipment used in the telephone business have increased over 35 per cent since 1940 and are continuing to increase.

In spite of a record volume of business during and since the war, Company earnings have been only a little more than they were in the worst year of the depression. Since 1940, the number of Company telephones in Nebraska has increased about 41 per cent but our expenses in furnishing service in this state have practically doubled.

To provide good service and to continue to increase its usefulness, this Company has spent $3,380,000 in Nebraska since V-J Day for service improvements and new facilities and it will need to spend many millions more in the next few years.

The tremendous construction program we have under way to serve the public satisfactorily will require adequate earnings to attract the necessary capital from the investing public at reasonable terms and on a sound basis.
