PRAIRIELAND ... TALK

By ROMAIN SAUNDERS ATKINSON Route 5

LINCOLN — That veteran of many legislative sessions, Sen. Petersen, flaunts in the face of Nebraska citizens the thing they voted down. He has introduced a bill setting up a state retail sales tax. That was the ghost in the defeated school amendment. Another senator wants to saddle us with a state income tax. There's nothing the matter with our present system. The trouble is with the spending agencies. Recklessness with public funds has created a mental frenzy for re-vamping the whole tax structure. Our state legislature should be flooded with protests against the passage of these two bills.

A gray December morning in 1890 I met Billy Hough on a deserted street in O'Neill. He greeted me with the announcement, "Sittin' Bull is dead."

In the Nebraska Historical Society museum at the state house is a very good portrait of Sittin' Bull — low forehead, narrow between crafty eyes, a combination of the fatherly and sinister facial expression.

Sittin' Bull was dead that December morning—dead from a shot through the heart fired by a red man, Lt. Bullhead, an Indian police from the Pine Ridge, who with Lt. Shavehead, another Indian police, had gone out under orders of Col. Drumm at Ft. Yates to "secure the person of Sittin' Bull." What followed resulted in the battle of Wounded Knee, a feeble expression of the last forlorn hope of the Sioux.

Sittin' Bull had been the inspiring spirit of the ghost dance working the reds on the reservation in Nebraska and South Dakota into a frenzy. To subdue the turbulent tribesmen it became necessary to arrest Sittin' Bull. He resisted and was shot down.

Evelyn Yellowrobe, a great-granddaughter of this same Sittin' Bull, teaches a class in English at Vassar college.

The Sioux are not what they used to be.

Among the brigade sent out by the big newspapers to report the Pine Ridge uprising was John McDonough, up to about '87 publisher and classical editor of The Tribune, done on a Washington handpress in the bank basement where is now housed the modern machinery of the Holt County Independent.

McDonough went to New York City from O'Neill, covered the battle of Wounded Knee for the New York Sun and was reported to have married a French actress. The same New York Sun quoted editorials from The Frontier in the hectic days that followed.

Raymond Bly, a rancher living west of Amelia and assessor in Swan precinct, has been spending a week in Lincoln, a guest in the home of Dr. and Mrs. John Curry, when he was not occupying a hospital bed following less serious surgery. Mr. Bly is a brother of Mrs. Curry.

The Nebraska Ayrshire association met in Lincoln February 5. I know of no representatives of this breed of cattle west of the Sixth P. M. . . The 4-H clubbers also have met at the capital city and county assessors move into the picture at the Lincoln this week. . . Top spellbinders pose before the camera, speeches entertain, instruct or become a bore and all hands gather for the big feed. . . Three children, including a 15-year-old girl, who attempted the rescue of two smaller ones of the family, perished in the flames that destroyed the tarpaper shack they called home at Bellevue. The father, serving a term in the penitentiary, was taken to the funeral—a heartbreaking tragedy that might well inspire a governor's pardon for that man to provide a home for those left of the family . . . Ogallala school district will raise the money by 1.6-mill levy to pay the teachers a "living costs" bonus of $100 to $200 . . .

"THE WINDJAMMER" Starring "Bazooka" BOB BURNS

To be shown here on JOHN DEERE DAY . . .

Free to farmers, in this and neighboring communities, is the big John Deere Day Program, to be held at the O'Neill public school auditorium on Tuesday, February 11. According to Lloyd Collins, the O'Neill John Deere dealer, this year's John Deere Day program will provide a full measure of top-notch entertainment every farmer and his family will long remember. The main attraction is a 55-minute Hollywood feature, "The Windjammer," which stars "Bazooka" Bob Burns, famous radio and screen comedian.

The "rib-tickling" story is built around a windy character, Bob Newton by name, who claims to be able to make animals talk. His experiences, and those of his charming daughter, in filming a talking animal picture in Hollywood will be enjoyed by everyone. In the supporting cast are such well-known artists as Gale Robbins, Scott Elliott, Kenneth MacDonald, Ida Moore, Eddie Kane, Dan Duncan, and Sam Flint. Four Other All-Talking Pictures In addition to "The Windjammer", four other new, all-talking pictures will be shown. They include "Headliners in Tractor Value" — the story of the new John Deere Models "A" and "B" Tractors for 1947 . . . "New Power for the Smaller Farm"—an important announcement of a new tractor with a complete line of integral equipment for the small acreage farmer . . . "Conservation Farming with Regular Equipment" — an educational picture on how to keep your soil "at home" with the equipment you have on your own farm . . . and "New Pages in John Deere Progress" — a newsreel on newly developed John Deere integral and drawn machines for 1947. The Lloyd Collins Implement firm cordially invites every farm family in this area to come to this big farmer's day program. He promises a good time to everyone who comes. According to Mr. Collins, admission to the John Deere Day Program is by ticket only. Any farmer who has not received tickets can get them free by inquiring at the store before the day of the show.

O'Neill Public School Auditorium Tuesday, February 11

First Show: 9:30 a. m., for school children only. (No tickets required.)
Second Show: 1:30 p. m., everyone invited. (Tickets free by inquiring.)

Bulletin 508: "In recent experiments, complex mixed supplements containing meat, soy meal, cottonseed meal, alfalfa leaf meal and linseed, produced faster gains and finished hog more evenly than simple supplements (tankage)."

Shamrock 40 percent Hog Supplement will do far better than tankage. It is especially rich in vitamins for Brood Sows and Nursing Pigs.

Ohio Ag On Limestone:

"Poultrymen ask whether Limestone is as good as oyster shell. The answer is "yes" providing the limestone is 90 percent or better calcium carbonate."

Shellmaker is at least 97 percent calcium carbonate. It is also far harder than oyster shell so it really grinds grain.
